U. S. WILL PROTEST

HARVARD AGAINST FERNCROFT

A sweeping investigation of sensational charges in the case of Ferncroft Inn—brought into notoriety in the "Toodles" trial—is to be made by District Attorney Michael A. Sullivan of Essex County and the incoming Grand Jury for the April term. In these charges it is alleged that high officials in the town of Middleton have been bribed to aid Ferncroft, not only in colonizing illegal voters but also in permitting Ferncroft Inn to run wide open as a gambling "joint" and as a resort for young college students and girls.

Essex County officials said today that members of college faculties have written to the officials of the town, pleading that the activities of Ferncroft be curtailed, and that no heed has been paid to these requests.

Harvard college heads also pleaded that a license for the sale of intoxicating liquor be given to some other place than Ferncroft if it was thought necessary to grant a license for the sale of intoxicants in that locality. No more attention was paid to this request than to the first.

After these requests and complaints were received by town officials they were taken to Ferncroft Inn, it is alleged, and shown to the proprietor, Harry K. Mansfield.

This sensational investigation is the direct outcome of the recent "Toodles" trial against Harry K. Mansfield when many witnesses testified to what happened at Ferncroft and made it a matter of court record. The testimony at the "Toodles" trial related circumstances that, it is charged, had been known for some time to officials of Essex county.

The charges presented to District Attorney Sullivan of Essex county allege:

1—That Middleton has been carried for license for the past three years by the use of money.

2—That the Selectmen have refused to grant a license for the sale of intoxicants to any place except Ferncroft Inn despite the protests of prominent Middleton residents and protests in writing from civic leaders elsewhere in the State.

3—That not only had a high

British Warn American Ships

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(Bulletin)—Consul-General Skinner at London today cabled the Stset Department that the British Admiralty had issued a statement warning mariners that navigation is forbidden entirely to all ships in practically the whole area of the Irish Channel. The Admiralty also has decreed that all traffic wishing to proceed through the North Channel hereafter must pass southward of Rapplin Island, between sunset and sunrise.

State Inquiry Begun Today on 'Plaster' Bread

State investigation was begun today of the "loading" of bread with plaster of paris.

Herman C. Lythgoe, analyst of the State Department of Health and chief of the food division of that department, dispatched his inspectors to various sections of the city and the suburbs to purchase loaves of bread that will be immediately subjected to analytical test in the laboratories of the State.

Mr. Lythgoe will also confer with Dr. Jordan of the Boston Board of Health to ascertain the findings made by that board.

"Prosecutions will certainly be made if violation of the law is found," said Mr. Lythgoe.

Mr. Lythgoe said that calcium sulphate, the base of plaster of paris, is commonly used in bread preparations. "My impression is that the bakers have unwittingly purchased a poor grade of cream of tartar which contained too much calcium sulphate," he said.

He added: "The mere presence of dangerous chemicals in bread is sufficient to secure punishment for the bakers."

Inquiry in England on Japan's Demands

LONDON, March 2.—The tense situation created in the Far East by the demands upon China by Japan became a subject of parliamentary inquiry here this afternoon. Several questions relating to the matter were asked of the Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, by members of the House of Commons. In reply he stated that the demands presented by the Japanese government to China had "been much exaggerated."

123 Canadians Killed in Battle

TORONTO, March 2.—An official announcement today gives a total of 123 Canadian soldiers of the first contingent killed in action up to date.

PRESIDENT STIRRED BY EMBARGO

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The American government will protest to Great Britain and her allies against their determination to stop all trade to and from Germany in retaliation for the war zone declaration. Discussion of the form of this protest took up most of the time of President Wilson and his cabinet at their meeting today.

A tentative outline of the reply was made, but the administration will not indicate its nature until the formal note has been delivered at London and Paris.

That no nation has the right to change the rules of warfare without the concurrence of all the nations was the significant statement made today by President Wilson in discussing with callers the blockade policy of the allies.

The President pointed out that Great Britain had not made clear the means by which she proposes to keep all foodstuffs from the civilian population of Germany and in effect to sever all communication with Germany and the outside world.

He stated that apparently Great Britain was seeking to establish a blockade of Germany and that her action might lead to further correspondence. The President added that any American vessel now seeking to reach a German port would not violate any rule of neutrality in doing so, but merely would run a risk of being captured and seized.

President Wilson gave the im-

Two Children Drown, Mother Tries Suicide

FITCHBURG, March 2.—Three-year-old Eulalie Mercier and five-year-old Evarie Vachon broke through thin ice and were drowned in Baker's Pond today. William Moran, eighteen years, fell in trying to save them and was rescued by Clarence Ward, also eighteen.

Mrs. Raymond Mercier of No. 111 Plummer street, mother of Eulalie, tried to jump into the water when she realized her child was dead. Police and physicians prevented the distracted mother from committing suicide.

Eulalie Mercier and her playmate, Evarice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vachon of No. 3 Popular street, went thirty feet from shore where the water is eighteen feet deep, before the ice gave way.

William Moran, passing by, broke his way through the ice on a log and tried to reach the girls but fell in. Clarence Ward managed to save Moran but the girls were beyond help.

When the police later recovered the bodies of the girls a pulmotor was used on them but to no effect.

New Haven Directors Plead Not Guilty

NEW YORK, March 2.—Tentative pleas of not guilty were entered today to the federal indictments charging them with violating the Sherman anti-trust law, by Henry K. McHarg, William Skinner, D. Newton Barney and Frederick F. Brewster, directors of the New Haven Railroad. The defendants were allowed until March 22 to change their pleas or file demurrers. William Rockefeller has yet to plead.

President in Doubt About Trip to Fair

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The San Francisco trip of President Wilson still is "up in the air." He today reiterated that he would go if possible this month, but said his official duties were pressing, particularly in connection with the international situation.

MARKED WEALTHY MEN FOR DEATH

NEW YORK, March 2.—An amazing bomb plot, which included plans for wholesale assassinations of rich and prominent men, raids on banks and the destruction of religious and financial edifices, was revealed today when an attempt was made to blow up St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The lighted fuse of the infernal machine was extinguished just in time and two of the alleged plotters were seized in full view of the 700 or more worshippers who had assembled for early mass.

The extent of the plot as unfolded by the police is staggering.

Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Cornelius Vanderbilt were among those marked for death.

Lawless bands, armed with shotguns and rifles, were to appear in all parts of the city, slaying and robbing.

The city was to be plunged into a reign of terror.

The infernal machine placed in the cathedral was a powerful one, capable of killing a score or more of persons had it exploded, but the fuse was extinguished by a detective who had learned of the anarchists' plot after being admitted to membership in their organization.

DETECTIVES GET WARNING LETTER

Following a visit of detectives to Pawtucket in search of valuable curios stolen from the house of Mrs. Hannah P. Weld on Goddar avenue, Brookline, on the night of February 21, a mysterious letter of warning was received at the Sherman detective agency today. The letter is unsigned and postmarked Pawtucket, March 1, 9 p. m.

The letter is as follows:

Dear Sirs—I warn you to keep your detectives away from our house. They have been trying to gain entrance by every means in their power, and should they force an entrance they must expect the consequences. I am well protected and thoroughly in earnest. Therefore take warning before it is too late.

As he extinguished the fuse, other detectives arrested Frank Abarno, twenty-four years of age, and Charles Carbone, aged eighteen. In the possession of Abarno two bombs were found. Carbone is said to be the man who made the bombs. The two men are believed to be members of the Breaci gang of anarchists.

Shortly after the arrest of Arbano and Carbone the police also took into custody Frank Baldo, twenty-three years old, who said he was a laborer.

The intricacy of the detectives' plans was shown by the fact that Baldo, proved to be no anarchist, but a detective in disguise. His real identity was not even known to the police. It was not until after he had been taken before Police Commissioner Woods that it became known that he was not a real member of the anarchist band, but a detective in disguise. One bomb taken from Abarno consisted of cans wrapped and fused filled with iron slugs, screws, bits of iron, gun powder and black antimony.

Not since the Haymarket riots in Chicago, when a number of persons were killed by bombs, has there been revealed such a campaign of violence as the anarchists intended should follow the destruction of the Cathedral.

CARRIED TWO BOMBS.

The arrest of Abarno in the cathedral caused excitement among the worshippers. The prisoner was marched down the north aisle in

Fear Mexico City Massacre Has Begun

GALVESTON, Tex., March 2.—Unofficial reports received here from Vera Cruz today state Zapatistas attacked Mexico City last night after the electric wires within the capital had been cut, and that it is feared a massacre is in progress there.

French General Pau Arrives in Petrograd

PETROGRAD, March 2.—General Gerald Pau, the famous one-armed French commander, arrived here and was enthusiastically welcomed. The unbeaten soldier, who, from the beginning of the war until the middle of December commanded the French forces in Alsace, has been on the Russian front since the holidays, co-operating with the Russian strategists in the conduct of the eastern campaign.

pression that there were many points in the British statement which would have to be cleared up before it would be accepted by this government as final. He declined to be drawn into any lengthy discussion of the note, saying that he had no chance to digest it. He made it plain, however, that while the conditions of warfare have changed no nation has a right to change the rules of warfare without concurrence of all the nations.

It was pointed out in official quarters that the action of the allies is clear disregard of the rights of this country, as well as of other neutral nations. This, it is understood, will be emphasized in the representations from this government.

The idea of an embargo on exports of foodstuffs from this country to all belligerents was revived, but persons close to the President again scout it as they did when they were first suggested.

A proposal by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, that the United States take the lead in a joint demand from all the neutral countries that the belligerents cease their interference with the rights of the nations at peace, found much favor.

Interest of officials and diplomats centred chiefly in the means the allies would take to stop neutral ships carrying products to and from Germany. There also was much speculation as to how Great Britain and France would dispose of the cargoes taken in this campaign, especially goods such as cotton, heretofore not listed as contraband.

It was suggested that Great Britain would buy outright such cargoes, but this was declared by officials not to be sanctioned by the declaration of the Washington government to make sharp protest against the new policy of England and France.

Senator Stone, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, expressed the prevailing view when he asserted the blockade would seriously injure American commerce. He stated his belief that American shipping can and will be indemnified for all loses thus sustained. He said he was not yet prepared to take up the question of redress.

ENGLAND STATIONS WARSHIP IN PLAN TO BLOCKADE GERMANY

LONDON, March 2. — England's embargo upon food and raw materials destined for Germany is in full effect today, and the British government is confident that it will be able to blockade the German coast successfully.

It was learned today that the delay of Great Britain in announcing its policy of reprisal against Germany was due to changes made necessary in the location of English warships in order to shut vessels off from the German coast.

These were completed Saturday, and on Sunday a full report of the new disposition of the British ships was transmitted by the Admiralty to Premier Asquith. His announcement of the embargo came the next day. The action of the government is hailed with jubilation by the London press, which has been impatiently demanding "the strangulation of Germany" ever since that country opened its submarine warfare.

While it is admitted that protests from neutral countries probably will follow the embargo proclamation, the various naval experts on the newspapers are united in declaring that the precedent set in the American Civil War is sufficient to justify the blockade. On this point the Daily Mail says:

TO APPLY FULL PRESSURE.

"The allies will, in fact, observe all the rules laid down by the United States courts in the blockade of the Southern coasts during the Civil War, and they will take every possible step to avoid wanton injury to neutrals. They decline to be bound by the network of legal subtleties for which Germany has shown not the slightest regard, but they will observe the great fundamental principles of international law.

"Thus, at least, after seven months' respite, the silent pressure of sea power is to be applied to Germany in earnest.

"Of the capacity of the allies to exert such pressure not the slightest doubt need be felt. The fact that it has been possible to detach a large force of battleships, including the new wonderful super-dreadnought Queen Elizabeth to the far-off Dardanelles, is in itself proof that our margin of force is abundant."

The most radical proposition is put forth by the Morning Post, which advocates the abolition of the prize claims committee. It says:

"Neutral countries will, of course, complain. Neutrals have always complained in war time since the beginning of time, but no neutral has ever succeeded in forcing the sea power of England to relax its grip. It is probable that neutrals when treated with complete courtesy and respect by Great Britain, France, Russia and Japan, will on their side frankly recognize their position and continue to endure these inconveniences which all deplore, but which are not, after all, the greatest of the misfortunes which afflict the groaning world."

REPORT TWO OF INNER FORTS OF THE DARDANELLES SILENCED

ATHENS, March 2.—According to reports received from Constantinople today, Prince Saboh-ed-Din has telegraphed the Sultan urging him to conclude peace with the allies quickly in order to prevent a catastrophe to Turkey.

The international fleet bombarding the Turkish forts on the Dardanelles threw one thousand shells against the inner works on both sides of the Waterway on Monday, according to a report from Salonika.

Afterwards a gale which swept in from the Aegean Sea caused the ships to roll so that accurate shooting was impossible and the bombardment ceased.

A Russian admiral delegated to attend a council of British and French admirals has joined the Anglo-French fleet.

According to a Havas agency dispatch, fire from the guns of the allied fleet has destroyed the batteries of Kilid Bahr and Fort Soultanie (Chanak Kalesi), the two forts which guard the entrance to the narrowest part of the straits, about thirty miles from the entrance of the Dardanelles.

Information from Athens and Tenedos is to the effect that over 100,000 Turks have been posted along the coast of the Gallipoli peninsula from the Sea of Marmora, about 170 miles from Constantinople.

MASS TROOPS FOR A GREAT BATTLE ALONG SHORE OF WATERWAY

LONDON, March 2.—With their operations on the Dardanelles thus far incomplete, the Anglo-French fleet has been compelled to halt its attack temporarily on account of a heavy gale that is sweeping the strait and the Aegean Sea coast.

Meanwhile the fleet is awaiting the arrival of more troops that will oppose the Turkish forces now being gathered on the peninsula of Gallipoli and on the Asiatic side just south of the Sea of Marmora.

It is reported from Athens that Essad Pasha, the Turkish defender of Janina in the Balkan war, has been placed in command of the Turkish land forces on the Asiatic side.

Another dispatch from Athens states that Turkish torpedo boat destroyers attacked the Anglo-French mine sweepers in the Dardanelles, sinking two of them.

According to the indications conveyed in dispatches from Athens, Vice-Admiral Sackville H. Carden's fleet will next concentrate its attack upon the inner forts of Chanak, Karadjeuvas and Cam-Kalesi. The first two of these are upon the Asiatic side, the last named upon the European side.

The land operations are expected to develop on a scale sufficient to cause the withdrawal of the Turkish army of invasion from Egypt.

RUSSIANS REPORT SUCCESS IN GALICIA AND IN BUKOWINA

PETROGRAD, March 2.—Victorious in their operations against the Germans in Northern Poland, the Russians have now resumed the offensive in Bukowina and Southeastern Galicia, on the extreme left wing of the 700-mile battle front. They have already captured Sadagora, a few miles north of Czernowitz, the capital of Bukowina, and Kolomea, a Galician railway centre, while at the same time they are bringing such heavy pressure to bear on the Austro-German forces about Stanislau that the evacuation of this city is imminent.

In Northern Poland the losses suffered by the Germans have been so severe that there are now no infantry attacks, their activities being confined to artillery bombardments of the fortress of Osowiec and the Russian positions northwest of Grodno.

The great number of prisoners taken by the Russians along the Niemen-Bobr-Narew front has been increased by 10,000 captured at Prasnysz and 1,300 taken at Grodno. In addition the Russians have captured about thirty machine guns along this front, together with ten cannon and enormous booty.

In the Carpathians the Germans and Austrians during the last two days have made numerous attacks upon the Russian front near Lupkow pass. These assaults, as usual, were made in mass formation, and as a result the attacking forces are suffering heavily from the Russians' fire. All the attacks were repulsed.

BERLIN REPORTS GERMANS HOLDING IN EAST AND WEST

BERLIN, March 2.—Despite fierce attacks by the French and Russian troops, the Germans have succeeded in holding their positions in both the eastern and western theatres of war, according to an official report from the German general staff issued here this afternoon. It says that in the Argonne region of France the Germans captured several trenches, while in the Champagne region the attacking French forces suffered enormous losses.

In the eastern war theatre the Russians are maintaining an offensive movement, attacking the Germans at night, but these assaults are being repulsed. The general staff reports follows:

"Renewed attacks by strong French forces in the Champagne region have already broken down in most instances. The enemy's losses were enormous under the German fire. In a few places there were hand-to-hand fights yesterday, in all of them our troops being victorious. They hold their positions firmly.

"In the Argonne, the Germans captured several trenches. Eighty prisoners and five mine throwers were taken. Attacks made on Vauquois were repulsed by the Germans.

"Advantages gained by the Germans in the Vosges during the last few days have been maintained in spite of violent counter-attacks. The French losses were especially heavy in an attack yesterday sewing east of Celles.

"In the eastern theatre of war, Russian advances from the southeast and the south of Augustowo failed. Night attacks made by the Russians northeast of Lomza and east of Plock were repulsed.

1,880,000 GERMANS ON THE WESTERN FRONT, 2,080,000 IN EAST

PARIS, March 2.—"It is untrue that the Germans have fewer men on the allies' fronts now than they had in January," says an official note.

"Only one German army corps was taken from the allies' front, and this was replaced later by other formations.

"It is true Field Marshal von Hindenburg's offensive was carried out with strong reinforcements, but these were made up of new formations and of troops taken from sections along the Eastern front.

"The German army fought the battle of the Masurian Lakes with reinforcements of six army corps. The total number of German corps on the Eastern front is thirty, to which should be added Austrian forces numbering twenty-two.

"On the French front the Germans have forty-seven army corps. These figures have not varied since December."

An army corps is 40,000 men. This figure indicates that there are 2,080,000 Germans and Austrians on the Eastern front and 1,880,000 Germans on the Western front.

Report German Submarine Sunk

WEYMOUTH, England, March 2.—A naval tug was sent out today in search for the wreckage of a German submarine, which is believed to have been destroyed by the steamship Thordis in the English Channel, off this port, yesterday.

According to Captain John W. Bell of the Thordis a submarine fired a torpedo at his ship, but it missed. Then the Thordis was sent ahead at full speed and rammed the submarine. Afterwards oil was observed on the surface of the water and the crew of the Thordis concluded that the submarine had been sunk.

Freedom Crushed in Russia, Says Brandes

BERLIN (Wireless via Sayville), March 2.—George Brandes, the distinguished Danish writer, in an article in the Politiken denounces the Russian pogroms. He says the Russian soldiers are badly used; Socialist newspapers are being suppressed; labor organizations are forbidden; the Socialist members of the Duma have been jailed, and one Finnish statesman sent to Siberia.

"Meanwhile," he adds, "England and France pretend to be fighting for freedom at the side of Russia."

FOIL BOMB PLOT IN CATHEDRAL

plain view of many of the hundreds of worshippers who thronged the magnificent edifice. Abarno carried two bombs and a lighted cigar and took his plight coolly, casting defiant glances to the right and left. Abarno is a lithographer. He is a crafty looking man with sharp eyes that dance in his head.

Cartiono, the youngest of the men arrested, is a machinist by trade, and the police declare that he is a skilful manipulator of the explosive ingredients of horological machines.

The Central Office had long been at work upon the bomb conspiracy and the arrests today were the climax of some of the cleverest detective duty ever done in this city.

As day was breaking Detectives Fennelly and Murphy of Captain Tunney's squad took up their station in front of a squalid tenement in Third avenue. Soon a man peeped from the doorway. He did not see the detectives and quickly walked up the street followed by another.

They were cautiously trailed by the detectives and about 7 o'clock they turned briskly toward the Cathedral. Abarno entered while Baldo remained on guard outside.

CLEAR TO LIGHT FUSES.

In the meantime Abarno had lighted a cigar, which he kept concealed with his hand. This was to be used in lighting the fuses of the bombs. In

CASCARETS KEEP BOWELS REGULAR AND CURE COLDS

No headache, sour stomach, bad cold or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box.

Colds—whether in the head or any part of the body—are quickly overcome by urging the liver to action and keeping the bowels free of poison. Take Cascarets tonight and you will wake up with a clear head and no doubt you will wonder what became of your cold. Cascarets work while you sleep; they cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, the quickest way to get rid of colds is one or two Cascarets at night to cleanse the system. Get a 5-cent box from any druggist. They relish like Candy Cathartic and it is often all that is needed to drive a cold from their little system.—Advertisement.

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, and sometimes ache and probably nine cases out of ten simply indicate that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind, that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, nettle rash and irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. This trouble has nothing to do with the fermenting food, which in itself is quite natural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may become most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop fermentation and neutralize the acidity of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of diluted magnesia, probably the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary, and prevent food in the way of a preparation such as pleasant magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and that anyone's stomach to do its work properly without being bothered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—M. FERNCROFT INN, CENTRE OF CHARGES FACING JURY PROBE, AND PROPRIETOR MANSFIELD sued to defeat opposition to this high office).

5—That a merchant of Middleton had used Ferncroft money to buy votes for Ferncroft.

5—That another official had taken money to cover up the troubles in connection with the gambling at that resort as well as to debauch the elections in the town.

5—That the proprietor of Ferncroft, it is alleged in the charges, supplied two town officials with intoxicants on every Saturday night in amounts sufficient to last throughout the following week, so that they might have enough for their own use and for the entertainment of their friends.

7—That Harry K. Mansfield, the proprietor of Ferncroft, ordered a telephone installed in the house of a selectman, paid for the installation of it and then paid the telephone bills.

8—That one of the town residents has been tagged with the name of the "Ferncroft Satellite" and was "used" for the purpose of buying votes and distributing liquor in illegal vote procuring.

8—That the son of a well-known Boston physician became intoxicated at Ferncroft and in driving his automobile back to Boston collided with a train and lost a limb. This occurrence was used as an argument to prevent the issuance of licenses that year. It was shortly after a town election and before the licenses had been granted College faculties became interested in the case of this young man. It was stated to the selectmen complaining of Ferncroft and its proprietor because this student had become so intoxicated that he was unable to control his automobile and as a result of which he nearly lost his life.

Dean Briggs and Hurlbut of Harvard informed the selectmen that Ferncroft had a very bad effect upon students in various colleges and in their letters to the selectmen told that they had learned of Ferncroft from students.

They declared that it was an unfit place to have a license and asked that if it was thought necessary that the town grant a license some other place than Ferncroft get it.

The Watch and Ward Society had received many letters complaining of Ferncroft. Parents of young men and young girls wrote to J. Frank Chase of the Watch and Ward Society. He forwarded these letters to the selectmen.

It is alleged that after these letters were received in the town they were taken to Proprietor Mansfield at Ferncroft Inn and after he had read them over he dictated a reply which was supposed to come from the selectmen. That was all. It is said, that was done in regard to these complaints.

The father of the young student who lost his foot complained to Jophanus Whitney, head of the State police, and described in detail conditions at Ferncroft Inn. Within a short time after this complaint, it is said, Mansfield was "tipped off" to get his roulette wheel and all the gambling paraphernalia out of sight as a raid was coming. The gambling tools were taken away.

State police arrived, but nothing wrong was going on just then. Soon after they left the roulette wheel and the other gambling implements were being carted back to the inn.

Other incidents of a similar nature to those named have been told to the Essex County authorities and as a result the entire matter is to be laid before the Grand Jury.

The scrappy session of Saturday night has only added to the determination of the citizens' committee against Ferncroft and its satellites and to let the light in on the years of wrongdoing in that town.

Attorney Henry H. Bond, who represented the citizens' committee, today characterized the meeting of Saturday night as "a joke," and said it is only a formality, a thorough house-cleaning, of which, he said, Middleton is badly in need. He added that the charges of bribery, corruption and colonization of voters are to be proved, that the District Attorney of Essex County already has the charges in hand and that the final result will be the prosecution of officials and their followers, who for years have been responsible for conditions at Ferncroft.

The fact that District Attorney Sullivan was present during part of the hearing on Saturday night was considered most fortunate by the Citizen's Committee.

SULLIVAN READY TO ACT.

District Attorney Sullivan was asked today if he attended the Saturday night hearing in his official capacity. He said:

It was suggested to me that I might be interested in attending the hearing. I dropped in on that account. I heard but part of it and was very much interested in it.

I prefer not to say anything as to my intention in the matter where I may have found any improper action. It would be improper for me to do so, but wherever I find wrongdoing in Essex County—whether it be something new or of long standing—the citizens of Essex County may rest assured that I will investigate thoroughly, and if as a result of that investigation I am satisfied that further proceeding is called for I shall proceed to the limit.

Henry H. Bond today had this to say about the meeting of Saturday night:

"My feelings, as I review the events of a tumultuous evening at Middleton are mingled ones of satisfaction and disappointment. For it was a keen disappointment to have such a reception given to a case carefully prepared and based upon absolutely convincing evidence.

"It gives me, however, a real feeling of satisfaction to know that I may have been able to show Middleton people the conditions that have grown up in their midst.

"Conscious that we went there with evidence that would be received, credited and relied upon in any court of law, we had every expectation that this evidence would not only be admitted in an investigation less formal in character such as this, but that it would be welcomed by the Board of Registration as the representatives of Middleton to put its own house in order without outside interference.

"Imagine our disappointment and surprise that these registrars, sworn officers of the community, in most responsible positions, were absolutely unyielding in their determination not to receive the most vital portions of this testimony.

"The issue was not a complicated one, whether these twenty-six illegal residents had in good faith made Middleton their home, their legal home.

"The issue I clearly outlined before presenting the witnesses, reading from the decisions of our Supreme Court in order that the tests which have been applied to the determination of this question might be clearly understood.

"Nor is it an issue difficult for men without legal training to grasp —whether these men came to Middleton to establish permanent homes therein, bringing their families with them, or whether they were paid to leave their families for a few nights and, by sleeping at Ferncroft, acquire the appearance of a right to vote from there, to the great benefit of its proprietor.

"On this issue, obviously the evidence that these men had been paid $5 each to go to Ferncroft on March 31 for a single night, that most of them never stepped foot in Middleton again until they went there in October to register, receiving $3 for so doing—obviously this evidence and evidence to show who paid them this money, and for what purpose, were matters absolutely vital.

"And yet this was the evidence which this board almost contemptuously declined to consider. Statements by the chairman that the board did not care to consider any legal questions, but would leave those for the courts; that they merely wanted to know if these men were proper voters and did not care why they came to Middleton; that they did not care whether these men were paid for coming or not—these may give a fair impression of the entire lack of that judicial character in the proceeding which the law certainly contemplates.

"Not one question to which the attorney for these men raised the slightest objection was I permitted to ask.

"It was particularly gratifying that the District Attorney should be present and observe how an important matter such as this was being handled.

"I fully appreciate the difficulty that this board, having no lawyer in its membership, was bound to experience in a contest hearing such as this, but we had a right to expect that in a really honest endeavor to ascertain the truth, and the whole truth, the board would compel persons whom I called as witnesses to be sworn and testify.

Nevertheless they permitted Mr. Mansfield, who furnished the funds for all these men, as Allen testified; Mr. Conrad, who carried out all the arrangements for bringing these men to town, and even all of the twenty-six men themselves who were present and who were trying to become voters of Middleton, to remain in their seats and refuse to testify in response to my insistent demand.

"And yet, with this only exception of the inconsistence, they later in the evening permitted Mr. Sullivan (not the District Attorney) to put these same waiters on the stand as his witnesses against my protest.

"The whole evening's work had so little of a legal character, was so devoid of ordinary formality and of every elementary rule of procedure, that a lawyer found his legal training a positive disadvantage.

"We were, then, forced to trust that the unfairness of the situation was being made plain to the crowd of citizens who filled the hall. Even in this endeavor we were constantly thwarted by the interjections of certain prejudiced persons in the audience, until the whole proceedings had all the earmarks of a most riotous town meeting.

"And this is the protection that the law has given to the honest citizens of this town?

"Think what it means to bring twenty-six voters into a town whose voting strength was but 293 last year! An addition of 13 per cent.! Equivalent to an attempt, in a city of 26,000 votes, to vote 2,600 men illegally!

"And every illegal vote among these twenty-six would nullify the franchise of an honest citizen in that town, that franchise which every American prizes as such a precious possession.

"It was from this illegal fraud that Middleton was attempting to save herself.

"It has been said that we were in effect conducting a no-license rally under the guise of an election proceeding. If we checke the improper and illegal methods used in Middleton has the effect of making no-license votes, then we were so doing, of necessity."

CHEERS FOR "TOODLES" AS HOME OF FERNCROFT VOTES LICENSE

Middleton, where Ferncroft Inn is located has gone license by one of the largest majorities in the history of the town. The vote was, Yes, 142; No, 104, a majority of 38 votes. In spite of the strenuous no-license campaign waged by the Good Government Association, headed by Albert F. Henderson, the man who made charges of illegal registration against the so-called twenty-six Ferncroft employes, Harry K. Mansfield and his forces lead all the way.

The result of the vote was greeted with wild enthusiasm on the part of the victors. Over 400 were gathered in Town Hall when the vote was announced.

Hats were thrown in the air. There were cries of "Hooray for Toodles," and "Oh you Grandpa." Harry Mansfield, smiling, with the ever present cigar in one corner of his mouth, was immediately besieged by the victors, who gave him hearty handshaker, and in so doing each one would say, "I told you so, Harry."

The "Drys," however, were not downhearted. They smiled and said, "Oh, it's just the beginning of a good hot fight and we are far from the finish.

The total number of votes cast, 268, was the largest also the town has ever known. As one old citizen said: "It seemed as if everybody who could crep or crawl turned out. Voters sought the polls early. Many took occasion to see the process of a "challenged vote."

Mr. Henderson made his first challenge shortly after 10 o'clock when a load of the "waiter voters," headed by Charles Conrad, an assistant of Ferncroft, arrived on an electric from Salem.

Conrad was the first to ask for a ballot. He was about to deposit it in the box when Mr. Henderson in a clear cut voice said:

Mr. Moderator, I challenge Mr. Conrad's vote."

The Moderator—On what grounds do you challenge this voter?

Mr. Henderson—"Illegal registration."

The Moderator then turned to Conrad and requesting him to raise his right hand, said : "Do you solemnly swear that you are the identical person whom you represent yourself to be?" Conrad replied, "I do."

The Moderator—Ar. you a registered voter of this town?

Conrad—I am.

The Moderator—You have not voted at this election?

Conrad—I have not.

He was then asked to sign his name to the ballot. After this Moderator Hatch wrote beneath Conrad's signature the charge made by Henderson. The ballot was then checked and placed in the ballot box.

Challenges were also recorded with ten other Ferncroft waiters who came to vote and to two other citizens who were not interested in Ferncroft in any way. One was Fred Gilles, former tax collector, and the other H. Bray Wilkins. Both were challenged by Henderson, who claimed that they lived elsewhere.

Harry K. Mansfield was also at Town Hall all day. To the reporter he said:

"Well, this is great. It is an indorsement of Ferncroft by the good citizens of Middleton. Let me tell you another story. Some months after "Toodles" left Ferncroft there came a black cat. I took the cat in and fed it. Immediately after that I had the following thing occur. I beat J. Frank Chase and his Watch and Ward club; I got license last year; I beat "Toodles," and I got a great victory today. I give great credit to that black cat."

WELCOME AID IS GIVEN 800 BY 'BUNDLE DAY' WORKERS

Nearly 800 cases of distress relieved in the first day's distribution of clothing by the Bundle Day Committee at its headquarters in the city building, No. 11 Wareham street.

Four hundred and twelve persons, to be exact, called at the headquarters and carried away the gifts of the good people of Greater Boston made through the Boston AMERICAN in answer to the appeal of the Bundle Day Committee. The difference between the figures is represented by children who were too young or too poorly clad to come themselves and whose mothers and fathers, principally mothers, were given garments to make them comfortable and presentable in the chill March winds.

AID TO GET WORK.

Many men called and were outfitted with clothing good enough to give them courage to appear and stand a chance in all the waiting lists.

When Mrs. Stephen H. Roblin, wife of the pastor of the Second Universalist Church, gave the order to close every one of the waiting applicants had been served. Then the men volunteers began the work of sorting for today.

The most pathetic case of the day, according to Mrs. Roblin, was that of a woman who wore no other outer garment that a thin apron about her shoulders and beneath this a cotton skirt. And yet she was expecting an even that in well-to-do households is prepared for with love and care of clothes and relieved and looked after every creature comfort.

There was another woman who came from Lynn for a bundle for herself and two children, a boy and girl who were away from school because of insufficient clothing.

Another woman walked from Charlestown for what she sorely needed. A kind-hearted policeman paid her fare home.

Another woman from the North End told a story of all children insufficiently clad, two of whom were in bed because they had no street clothing at all. Her case was well authenticated.

Another woman who came was overcome because of lack of food. One of the women workers took her in charge and saw that she was fed as well as clothed.

All those aided brought the indorsement of agencies that knew of the individual needs. Cards issued through the Barnard Memorial, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Scots Charitable Society, the Jewish Charities, the Universalist Society, the Junior Charity Club, the North End Mission, the Boston Overseers of the Poor, the Boston School Visitors, the Boston Central Labor Union, the settlement houses, the police and in fact all the recognized avenues of organized relief were brought by applicants.

DEMAND FOR SHOES.

The big demand was for shoes for children and for men.

Mrs. Roblin was in charge of the work of distribution, assisted by Captain Langdon, U. A. S., retired, who had special supervision of the applicants. Here is a list of the Volunteers who aided:

Mrs. Joshua Bennett Holden of the Hotel Brunswick, Mrs. R. F. Johnson of the Hotel Brunswick, Mrs. Lewis H. Bonnell of Commonwealth avenue, Miss Morrell of Beacon street, Miss Wingate of Stearns road, Brookline; Mrs. Frank Lucas of Massachusetts avenue, President Ignatius McNulty of the Building Trades Council, Miss Elizabeth McNulty, Mrs. Carson Huff of Auburndale, Mrs. M. E. Dowling of Allston, secretary of the Bundle Day Executive Committee; W. W. Tully of Rutland square, Mrs. Anna Doyle of Humboldt avenue, Mrs. David Grimshaw of Blue Hill avenue, Martin H. Joyce, State secretary of American Federation of Labor; Mrs. Frank D. Clark and daughter of Jamaica Plain, Frank P. Holmes of the Back Bay, Mrs. E. F. Nash of St. Stephens street, Mrs. L. F. Gray of Brookline, Mrs. Chase of the Barnard Memorial, and Mrs. W. G. Moran of Jamaica Plain.

Leo MacLellan was in charge of the door and handed all the applicants carefully and kindly.

Steam heat for the building was furnished through the generosity of Frank L. Whitcomb, the builder, of No. 17 Wareham street, whose property adjoins the city building, and William B. Johnson of No. 17 Malden street gave his time and skill to get the discued steam pipes into good working order.

Here was Mrs. Roblin's summing up of the day:

"It has been a sad revelation to me to see how destitute many are. I am glad that the city is willing to do all in its power to relieve those who are suffering. Personally I have given away everything of my own that I do not actually need. We are all tired, but with a good night's sleep we shall be ready to go at it again tomorrow with renewed enthusiasm. It is certainly a great charge. Had it not been for willing helpers, I don't know how we would have gone through this successful first day."

THE AMERICAN'S MAGAZINE PAGE

The Up-to-Date Parisienne and Her Piquant Hat

Republished by Special Arrangement with HARPER'S BAZAR, the Oldest and Greatest Woman's Magazine

SCALLOPS of blue moire ribbon and clusters of berries in faded red and burnished browns are the novel trimmings evolved by Roger for this sailor of dark blue glace straw.

PLAID ribbons are a trimming in themselves, as Roger has recognized, for she uses a green and blue plaid ribbon to brighten a navy blue straw toque and studs it with small rose-pink rosettes.

A NEW departure in millinery is the impression of breadth which Roger has given to this navy blue straw turban by the immense white wings arranged to flare at the sides.

ONLY the top of the crown of black straw is visible in this toque, encircled in inch-wide cerise moire ribbon, from which rises a black quill, giving a very chic effect.

ASIDE from the dark tones the most popular color is a new blue, which has been aptly dubbed Joffre blue. Roger has used ostrich tips in this fascinating tint for one of her newest hats.

(From Harper's Bazar for March.)

Never before has Camille Roger written an article for publication. In fact she has so strenuously opposed publicity of any kind that it was difficult to even catch a glimpse of her hats unless one was known to her as a client. Her exclusiveness has made her atelier the mecca of fastidious women whose position in the social and fashion world is unassailable.

PIQUANT and saucy, suitable and distinctive, is the Parisienne's hat. It is as individual and personal a feature of her dress as she. The Parisienne may be persuaded to buy a dress ready-made—but a hat, never! She spends time and thought on her dresses, but lavishes real affection on her hats. For she knows—as does the fastidious woman of every land—that the hat makes or mars her ensemble and that a suitable and becoming hat will carry many an insignificant gown to triumph.

This year will not be a riotous one in millinery. The real Parisienne, the leaders of society, are all working for Red Cross organizations and relief committees, and they dress accordingly. That is to say, hats, as well as gowns, are characterized by simplicity and elegance, and distinction in line and trimming, and are in marked contrast with the elaborate extravagances of past seasons.

This will be a difficult season for the amateur modiste, for perfection in simplicity is always the hardest to obtain. And this year lines in hats are disconcertingly simple, and are without frills or elaboration. This season's woman of moderate means should, more than ever, choose one good shape in preference to several mediocre ones. It will be impossible to hide a badly built hat under fanciful adornments. The chic and grace lie in the shape itself.

Shapes, however, may be small or medium, flat or high, toque or sailor. All shapes are permissible, provided they suit the features of the wearer and carry out the silhouette as indicated by her gown.

Many women prefer toques, and I am making many, most of them giving that slender, elongated line which comes from a hat fitting closely to the head and rising in the back. All hats are placed rather far front, of course, and high in the back.

The military note will not be perpetuated in hats. It has already fallen into the commonplace. A little cotarde may, perhaps, survive, but rarely.

So far as we can judge at present no one color will dominate all others this year, unless it be the shade of blue which the midinette, with her customary vivacity, has called Joffre, and which is almost universally becoming. While in Paris, aside from Joffre, mostly dark blues or tete de negre or combinations in black and white will be seen, the usual run of Spring colors will reign in neutral countries. And the trimmings—they will be as simple and unaffected as possible, and will be placed so as to give the necessary chic to the hat, but in nowise interfere with it or hide the lines. A quill, a flower, a little ribbon bow—behold the trimming of the hat this Spring.

The effectiveness of trimmings will depend on the way they are placed, and on their colors. The large shape with a double-crown effect, shown in the sketch, relies entirely on the novel way in which the scallops of moire are placed. The hat is of dark blue glace straw, and the silk is of the exact shade. Three perfect bouquets of berries in faded reds and burnished browns give the color touch. White is not distinctive in blue, perhaps, the idea might be effective carried out in a combination of colors.

The little toque, with the rather broad quill, is almost hidden under the layers of inch-wide ribbon which encircles the crown. The shape is black, and the ribbon that shade of red which hovers between deep cerise and ruby. The quill is black.

For Spring wear the Parisienne always includes a silk hat in her wardrobe. A rather good example is the brown taffeta toque with two huge pheasant feathers rising straight up in front. For silk hats ribbed moire and taffeta will be equally favored.

There is more fantasie in the little black straw shapes with the brim cut in scallops. The edge is bordered with a half-inch band of taffeta, between the scallops are placed ostrich tips in Joffre blue, combined with a hair-line of aigrette.

One of the most dashing of the new hats is a blue supple straw with a white crown, trimmed with two white wings, one placed on either side. Half of the wing is sewed closely against the front of the hat, the remainder is allowed to flare out. This gives a wing effect, and an impression of breadth, which is a distinct departure from the fashions of late.

This effect of breadth is all the more striking this year because comparatively few novelties, and practically no bizarre features, have been introduced in the early Spring millinery. The Parisienne has no heart to indulge in the ultra. She intuitively demands a hat with dash and chic, but nothing of a sensational nature. Feather fantasies, ribbon bows, and "stick-ups" of all kinds have soared so far heavenward as it is possible to permit them—every hour they are in danger of losing their tips. As they can rise no higher, they must seek an outlet in another direction—and the only rational direction is at the side.

Hubby Won

Wife wanted to go away on a visit, and hubby didn't want her to. But he was much too wise to say so.

"Don't you think you might manage to keep house for just a little week?" pleaded wife, as she leaned against his shoulder.

"I suppose I could," replied hubby doubtfully.

"And you won't be lonely and miserable?" she went on, hoping she had won.

"Not a bit of it!" retorted hubby, with suspicious speed.

"Humph! Then I won't go!"

The Domestic Delinquent

Mistress—And, Jane, we'll have that small piece of meat as well.

Next week—Please, 'm, the cat ate it!

Mistress—The cat! Which cat?

New maid (amazed)—Oh, ain't there a cat?

Their Married Life

Helen Consoles Nora, Who Is Heartbroken Over Her Fiance's Desertion

Copyright, 1915, International News Service

"NORA, is anything the matter with you?" asked Helen suspiciously, looking up from the breakfast table where she was lingering over her coffee. Helen liked to linger mornings at breakfast, and usually it was a full hour before she began her morning duties. Nora had waited on the table that morning with red eyelids, and Warren had remarked that something must have come in the mail to make her unhappy.

"Did you get a letter this morning, Nora," she asked as Nora came in with some fresh toast.

"No, Mrs. Curtis," said Nora with a suspicious sniff.

"What is it then? You have been unhappy ever since breakfast. Mr. Curtis noticed it."

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Curtis, I didn't mean to have any one notice it. Oh, ma'am, I'm so unhappy," and Nora began to cry.

Helen got up and put her arm around the girl comfortingly. "Now what is it, Nora? you can tell me, you know."

Nora proceeded to cry for a few minutes and Helen waited rather impatiently to hear what had happened. She could not understand what it was unless a letter had come that morning. She had not noticed it in the mail, but there was usually a lot and Nora might have been expecting it and so had gone through it before putting it on the table. Warren, like a great many other men, could not eat breakfast without his morning paper, and the going through of the mail made quite an event of the meal.

"Now, what is it, Nora," as she saw signs of clearing. "You'll feel better when you tell me about it. Was it a letter?"

"No, ma'am. Oh, Mrs. Curtis, I didn't sleep any last night. It's Joe, ma'am. He's left me."

HELEN ASKS IF THERE WAS A QUARREL.

Helen felt an impulse to laugh, and then, as the thought that she could help Nora occurred to her, she was glad. Then she saw Nora's grief was perfectly genuine and her first thought was to comfort the girl.

"Was it a quarrel, Nora, and did you get a letter?"

"Yes, ma'am, I didn't get a letter, it was last night."

"A quarrel, Nora?"

"Yes, ma'am, I guess so."

"Don't you know? I should think you would know whether you quarrelled or not."

Nora was silent.

"What was the fault, Nora?"

"Yes, ma'am, I guess so."

"Now tell me about it," Helen insisted.

Nora twisted the corner of her apron in her fingers and looked down at the pattern of the rug.

"It was Mrs. Bob Curtis' girl, Delia, ma'am. I thought Joe liked her and I asked him last night and"—

"Go on," interposed Helen.

"Well, ma'am, she has a pretty face and she spends all her money on clothes, and men like that, you know."

Helen thought to herself that unconsciously Nora was voicing common philosophy. She had been jealous of a girl who dressed better than she and was pretty. It was the fight for survival of the fittest with almost every class today, and Nora was one of the plodders who must suffer because looks and finery pleased the senses of young men like the one Nora was going to marry.

"Well, Nora, how did you and Joe happen to quarrel?"

"Well, ma'am, someone told me that Joe had gone to the moving pictures with Delia, and he was coming to see me that night, and he said he had to work."

"Did he go to moving pictures?"

"No, ma'am, he said not."

"Well, then, what's the trouble?"

"I said he wasn't telling me the truth."

"Why, Nora, you brought your trouble on yourself then."

Nora sniffled and wiped away a tear.

"Yes, ma'am," she said meekly, "and Joe hates me now."

"Nonsense, Nora, you have had a quarrel and it will soon be all over. You must tell Joe that you are sorry for doubting his word."

"But, ma'am, he's going to see Delia tonight. He said he might just as well, as long as I thought so."

SHE SUGGESTS THAT NORA WRITE A NOTE

Helen thought a moment. She hardly knew what to tell Nora to do. "Well, I'll tell you, Nora," she said finally. "You write him a little note and tell him you're sorry. Maybe he told you that just because he was angry."

"Oh, no, Mrs. Curtis, he really means it; he said that Delia had pretty hair and a new hat." And Nora proceeded to weep again.

"He probably said that after you had told him you didn't believe him."

"Yes, ma'am, he did. Do you think it was that?"

"Of course it was. I thought at first that Joe was treating you shamefully, but it was your fault after all."

"But Delia is pretty, ma'am."

"Suppose she is. Joe is engaged to you. He isn't likely to leave you for every pretty face he sees. Men feel very differently about the girls they are going to marry."

"Oh, thank you, Mrs. Curtis. I feel so much better."

"And, Nora, after you write your note, if Joe does happen to go and see Delia, don't be foolish and let him see that you care."

"No, ma'am," said Nora, dubiously. "I'll give you now whether you quarrelled or not."

Nora was silent.

"What was the fault, Nora?"

"Yes, ma'am, I guess so."

"Now tell me about it," Helen insisted.

Nora twisted the corner of her apron in her fingers and looked down at the pattern of the rug.

"It was Mrs. Bob Curtis' girl, Delia, ma'am. I thought Joe liked her and I asked him last night and"—

"Go on," interposed Helen.

"Well, ma'am, she has a pretty face and she spends all her money on clothes, and men like that, you know."

A Story of Love and Laughter Based on the Great Comedy Success of the Same Name

By A. A. WATERBURY,
Novelizer of "The Family Cupboard," "At Bay," etc., etc.

"AND like you that, madam; like you that, right well?" inquired the singer.

"Ho, yes, sir. Hi likes to see yer 'appy. Hit's just ha-beeth ha-growin' h'on yer fer the larst 'ole week." She clasped her hands to her bosom, gazed coyly down the length of her full black alpaca skirt to the toe of one broadly upturned flat shoe, and then gazed longingly up to Boggs' smooth and cherubically innocent face. She sidled a thought closer and ducked her poor head as if about to lay it on his manly shirt front. "Mr. Boggs, sir—Hi mikyes bold to harsk you something—hit hain't h'on my h'own count, now is hit?"

Solemnly the man replied, "Code-die—to be honest we must oft be cruel. It is not—on your account."

Coddle shook. Her disappointment by banishing her smile wanly from her face. "Yes? Wot then?"

"Sh-h-h-h-h!" He glanced behind him and spoke mysteriously. "It is because—I have—arrived."

"Hi've arrived, sir. Wot?" queried Coddle, glancing around her fearfully, the while.

"Here," exclaimed Johns, swelling out his chest, "I have never realized till now that I'm a born hotel clerk service. To watch! To anticipate every wish. To serve!" He bowed low in mental delight, and then poor Coddle stared at him and withdrew slowly from the close proximity to such erstwhile beloved as he extended dramatically, "Love! Fortune! Marriage? Bath!" I ask only a serviceable feather duster and a good, kind, loving master!"

"The marster, sir! Hour marster!" cried Coddle, in wide-eyed amazement. Then she glanced fearfully behind her. "Ho, just! Hi thought has 'ow you was h-a-callin' 'im ha ragin' Hafrican 'aira."

The man lifted his hands in horror. He found he could put his whose flatrionic ability in this pleasant game of baiting the moon-struck and manstruck cockney.

"Oh, Coddle, you are dreaming! He's a dove! There's nothing that man wouldn't do—to me—if he had the chance. Why, only yesterday, when he threw the inkwell, we did it so gently that he hardly broke the skin!"

Coddle stood blinking at him. She unclamped her lips once or twice, but the words fairly refused to come.

"And if I could only acquire your delicious Hengelish accent, I feel sure it would please the master vastly.

He smiled at the puzzled female and, picking up a plump cushion, began to pet it lovingly.

"Hah! the poor fool! 'E's gone wrong h'in the 'ead," whispered Coddie to herself. Then the light of determination came into her eyes. Not for nothing was she h'an 'Englishwoman. Britishness rules. Ann Coddle spoke.

"Excuse me, sir, but that 'ere doctor wot comes to see me for the cramps—'e's 'awful good, sir—h'an most h'inexpensive, too, 'e his. H'an h'if you would honly let 'im see you, sir! Perhaps now 'e might save you from his spell." She spoke wheedlingly in the tones one reserves for children and the mentally deficient.

"Ha! ha!" roared Johns. "Now, Coddles, don't."

And then he made a grave blunder in finesse. He proceeded to tickle the maiden right under the chin with the fluffy end of his feather duster.

CODDLE GIGGLES

Coddle emitted a coy giggle. "Ho, stop hit, sir. Now, you stop!" As if to shoo a chicken, she raised her apron and shook it coquettishly at him, balancing on one foot as she spoke, and rubbing the other flat soil across an equally flat ankle. "Hy love, Mr. Boggs, sir. Hi 'ope you gets to cuttin' hup that way—hit—hit"

In mock sternness he replied: "Woman, have a care! Remember there are dinner guests this evening. Reserve your emotions for the privilege of passing in the plate!"

She backed away and replied full seriously. "Yes, sir, 'e's a-comin' this hevenin', sir."

"Who?" cried Johns.

"The doctor, sir! H'll tyke the liberty h'of h'ask—speakin' to 'im, sir—'Boggs' laughed with what seemed to Coddle like the sound of idiocy. She hardly knew whether to giggle or to scream when he made a lunge at her with the feather duster, and she hurried back to her neglected work she could hear the song of the singing:

"Somebody else is getting it—getting it—
Right—where—he—headed—it—to —me!
Somebody else is getting it, getting it—
Right where the chicken got the
A-X-E!"

"Poor out!" she said again with unspeakable scorn.

While Johns pranced gaily about his work, a pretty face appeared at the casement window and a vision of mischievous enjoyment and approbation flitted across the pink and white serenity. Then the window swung in and the butler prompter went over to take hold of the smiling red lips of its owner—Miss Florence Cole of Albany.

"S'pose you let me in," suggested the lady.

"Pleasantest duty I could have," asserted the faithful servant.

A minute or two later Florence tiptoed into the room, whispering with a delightful air of conspiracy: "Sh-h-h! Where's Nellie?"

"I'pstairs—dressing—you darling!" said T., whispering too with a right good will since he appreciated getting very close to Florence.

"Good! I don't want her to see me yet. She's getting repentant—invited me over to dinner—or maybe friend husband is getting insistent."

"Florence, I can't have you flirting with my employer," admonished T. "You must not look above your station, girl."

And then, with a sudden access of serious feeling, he held out his arms to his dusky little maid-servant.

"No, no! Keep to business. First, T., I must tell you that if I can't flirt with your employer I never been successfully flirting with your ex-employe. By dint of careful handling, Mr. Tony Toler has come to see the individuability of starting a rival firm of his own, and is looking for an Mr. Applegate as a customer until such time as your influence gets Tony back with the Eureka plus the partnership he was promised for landing the president of the Northwestern. Now you will take Tony back, won't you, dear?"

BANKRUPTCY IN SIGHT

"I? Florence, my influence with George is like that of a snowball in the realms of Pluto! A year from now, when I cease hating, Tony may have a couple of rival firms of his own. Oh, dearest, you are engaged to a butler with George at his helm, you may find yourself engaged to a bankrupt."

"Leave the business of the firm to the Senator's child, T." cried Florence, with a truly feminine shrewdness. "But how is your little game working here? Is George falling for it?"

"He loathes me," replied Johns, with an expansive grin. "But, say, I'm making an awful hit with Coddie!"

"Yes, but I'm afraid I'm not dreamed that he thought that she was after me—with one of those scalloped edge bread knives. But—here in spite of my unhappiness I've seen a wide awake enough to get this for you."

Johns smiled wisely and dodged the little package held out to him. He held out his dimpled hand gaily and smiled archly as he explained. "No, you don't! That's how I got this one!"

"But open it, please."

Her obedient swain opened a package that disclosed an atomizer. He looked at her inquiringly, and made a still more wry face as she distilled a little of the fragrance directly under his nose. Then she rose on tiptoe and whispered a few directions into John's ear. He smiled blandly as she drew from a pocket in her black satin cape a long veil of white chiffon and handed it to him.

COULD NOT STAND ON FEET

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief In Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich.—"I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get so weak that I would have to get a drink every few minutes, and before I did my dusting I would have to lie down. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I found a piece of paper blowing around the yard and I picked it up and read it. It said 'Saved from the Grave,' and told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' So I did, and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't need any more,' and he said, 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong."—MRS. ALONZO E. BAKER, 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

VALET TESTIFIES THAT CABOT EXPRESSED WISH TO "GET OUT"

Edson Freeman Woodward, valet for the late Louis Cabot, millionaire sportsman, whose will is being contested in the Superior oCurt, testified today that Mr. Cabot had often "wished he was out of this" and once pointed to a number of razors and had said:

"You ought to take them away, as I'll not be responsible for what I'll do."

Woodward quoted Mr. Cabot as having said on one occasion "if it wasn't for the disgrace of the thing he would get out."

The witness declared this was in the Spring following Mrs. Cabot's death, and further quoted Mr. Cabot as having stated:

"I wish I was out of this. There is nothing to stay for."

Woodward explained that Mr. Cabot would be feeling bad and lonely on these occasions. After the former valet had been questioned about the razor incident, he was asked by Attorney Whipple:

"Did he talk more than once of suicide?"

The question met with an objection from Attorney Choate, counsel for the will, and was not answered.

TALK ABOUT RAZORS.

Asked how the talk about removing the razors started, the witness replied:

"I think he (Mr Cabot) pointed to the razors on the dressing table and said he was not responsible and might do something."

Woodward told of an incident when Mr. Cabot shook his cane, which struck the chandelier, causing the latter to fall and break on the floor. Witness said Mr. Cabot had exclaimed while shaking the cane:

"Oh, God, what have I got to live for?"

Woodward said he had been ordered by Mr. Cabot not to say "Mrs. Cabot's room," but to say instead "Old time" or "That room," in referring to her chamber. Witness said that Mr. Cabot had declared that in "disposing of property, Mrs. Cabot's will ran with his" (Mr. Cabot's).

Woodward testified that Mr. Cabot had two small caskets of jewels, and that one of these contained fifty pieces of jewelry, including many diamonds.

Woodward was in Mr. Cabot's employ for upwards of thirty years in various capacities—as cuddy, masseur, cook, nurse, valet, confidential agent and adviser. He is a witness for the contestants. Mrs. G. Vernon Briggs, daughter of Mr. Cabot, and counsel is Attorney Whipple.

On one occasion when a guest came, Woodward said, he himself occupied another room from the one he was accustomed to sleep in.

TREATED CABOT.

Q.—Up to that time had you slept every night in that room? Q.—As I remember.

Q.—Were there any nights, as you remember, when you returned and was called to Mr. Cabot's room? A.—Not that I remember.

Q.—Were you ever called to Mr. Cabot's room before? A.—Yes.

Q.—What would you do for him? A.—If he had indigestion I would bring hot water. Then I would massage him. I would massage more particularly his legs and arms.

Q.—When did he speak of cutting down expenses? A.—It was in the Spring.

Q.—Can't you fix the date more approximately? A.—I can't remember that.

Continuing his testimony Woodward told of a conversation he had with Mr. Cabot.

"One time he told me the expenses would have to be cut down," said Woodward, "and that he would have to live more economically now that Mrs. Cabot was gone. He even thought of selling the place. As near as I can remember he said the place was too large and that he intended to sell it. I said not to do it, that he could live at the place during June, and the interest would pay his expenses.

TALKED OF EXPENSES.

"He referred to the expenses of running the place and I told him they wouldn't be great."

Q.—When did this conversation take place? A.—In his room at the Brookline home.

Q.—Do you recollect whether you were massaging him at the time? A.—I probably was.

Q.—Is it true that after the advice you gave him he didn't speak of selling the place again? A.—I don't remember.

Witness related a conversation he had with Mr. Cabot in which the latter referred to the death of Mrs. Cabot and to other things connected with his estates at Nonquit, Mass., North East Harbor and Dublin, N. H. He testified that Mr. Cabot complained of keeping the stock too fat and that he would have to cut down the expenses attending the upkeep at such places.

The courtroom was well filled today. Mrs. Briggs and her husband and Mrs. Bartol and her husband occupied the same seat. Mrs. Bartol was not knitting today.

Woodward testified further that he took care of the safe and jewelry, and that outside of Mr. Cabot he was the only one who knew the combination of the safe at some times.

HAD SAFE COMBINATION.

Q.—Did you ever have any talk with Mr. Cabot about his wife's jewelry? A.—Yes, he told me that a Miss Stone was coming and to take an inventory of it. He wanted me around to unlock the safe.

Q.—Did he have the key? A.—There was no key. A combination was used.

Q.—Did you have the combination? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did Mr. Cabot, A.—Some times, but I don't think he ever unlocked the safe himself.

Q.—Did anybody else have it? A.—Yes, at different times, but not then. Woodward here testified that Mrs. Cabot had two small caskets of jewelry. One of these was taken out on that visit.

Q.—Can you describe it? A.—I wish I could.

Q.—Was it there much of it? A.—Yes, a lot of it.

Q.—Many diamonds? A.—Yes, in the box opened there were fifty pieces of jewelry, including many diamonds.

Q.—Did Mr. Cabot ever tell you to take orders from Mrs. Bartol? A.—I don't remember that he did.

Q.—Did you ever take any from her? A.—I don't recall.

SPOKE OF GETTING OUT.

Q.—Now, Mr. Woodward, is it not true that once you followed Mr. Cabot upstairs in his Brookline home and there had some talk with him about rooms, a talk in which Mr. Cabot spoke of doing away with himself? A.—Part of it is and part of it isn't.

Q.—Well, won't you tell us how it all came about? A.—I was in his room one day when he said:

I was out of this. There is nothing to stay for." He also said that if it wasn't for the disgrace of the thing he would get out. I told him that I had plenty to stay for—that he had two daughters and six grandchildren and many other things.

Q.—That was in the Spring following Mrs. Cabot's death? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Do you remember any other similar talk with Mr. Cabot? A.—I don't heard him say he wished he was out of it.

Q.—About how many times did you hear him say that? A.—Perhaps three of four times.

Q.—Where did you hear him say this? A.—I heard him say it once in the library of his Brookline home, and once, I think, at Green Harbor.

FELT LONELY AT TIMES.

Q.—Can you tell us what he usually said on these occasions? A.—He just simply said, "I wish I was out of this. I've got nothing to stay for." He would be feeling bad and lonely on these occasions.

Woodward testified that eight or ten razors were kept by Mr. Cabot on a dressing table in his room.

Q.—Didn't he speak of those razors to you? A.—I cannot connect it with that time.

Q.—At that time, in June, 1911, in connection with a conversation with you, didn't he say something about them? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was it? A.—He said: "You ought to take them away, as I'll not be responsible for what I'll do."

Q.—When was the exact date of that conversation?

When Attorney Choate objected, Attorney Whipple said:

"We shall fix the conversation."

Judge Hardy: "If he can bring out the conversation it will indicate the time."

Q.—I want to ask you if it was not in June, 1911, that this conversation took place at the Brookline house and in that room? A.—It was in that room, and I don't know about the time.

Q.—What is your best recollection? A.—I cannot remember.

Q.—Was it at the same or different times, or was it when that long conversation took place? A.—It was not at that same time.

Q.—Did he talk more than once of suicide? (Objected to by Choate).

PUNISHED TO RAZORS.

Q.—Can you tell us how this talk arose as to the razors? A.—I think he pointed to the razors on the dressing table and said he was not responsible and might do something.

Q.—Can't you tell us what led up to the conversation? A.—I cannot remember.

Q.—Was he shouting at the time? A.—I can't remember.

Q.—What year was it? A.—I think it was in the Spring after Mrs. Cabot's death.

Q.—That was what I was asking you about and that is the best your recollection? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you do with the razors after he asked you to remove them? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you remove them? A.—I don't remember that I did.

Q.—Did you give orders to anybody to have them removed? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you tell anybody to remove them? A.—I don't remember; if I wanted them removed anyway I would remove them myself.

Q.—Was that before Mr. Chandler came or after? A.—I cannot say.

Q.—Were you present when Mr Chandler came? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Were you present when Mr. Cabot broke a chandelier? A.—Yes, sir; I was.

Q.—How did it happen? A.—He came into the room.

Q.—When was that? A.—That was in the Spring.

BROKE CHANDELIER.

Q.—Can you tell us how he came to break the chandelier? A.—As I remember, he came into the room from his carriage. He took up his cane and shook it over his head, exclaiming: "Oh, God, what have I got to live for?" The chandelier being in the way of the cane over his head was hit and fell to the floor.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I swept up the glass.

Q.—Did you say anything? A.—I said nothing.

Q.—Did you leave the room for the broom or brush? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—What did you do after the chandelier was broken? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Where did he go? A.—I don't know where he went.

Q.—You have no memory whatsoever as to where he went or what he did after that? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Now, about those arms; how did he raise them? A.—Witness raised his hands vertically above his head, and then brought them horizontally from his shoulders.

Q.—Was the can in his hand? A.—He retained the cane in his hand.

Q.—What did he say after breaking the chandelier? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Was anybody else present? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you go right out and get the broom or the brush then? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Was Mrs. Bartol in the house or was Mrs. (name inaudible) there? A.—I don't remember.

DROVE CONSIDERABLY.

Q.—During this time in 1911 after the Spring, how did Mr. Cabot employ his time in the day and evening? A.—He drove considerably and played a little golf.

Q.—When did he play golf? A.—At half past nine or just after.

Q.—Did you have anything to do with him when he went driving? A.—Yes, I put his robe about him; it was part of my duty.

Q.—Now during the Spring of 1910 and 1911 did you hear him use the name of Mrs. Cabot in conversation? A.—Yes, sir; I did; I heard him use her name.

Q.—When was that? A.—That was when we first came back from Aiken. I mentioned Mrs. Cabot's name in connection with the house, and he said: "You won't say Mrs. Cabot's room; you will say, 'Old time,' or 'That room.'"

TELLS OF CONVERSATION.

Q.—Did you use her name after that? A.—I planned never to use her name.

Q.—Can you tell us about that conversation you had that time? A.—It was when Mr. Cabot said to me: "This afternoon I'm going to make an inventory of that jewelry."

Q.—Did you hear him refer to Mrs. Cabot that Spring? A.—Yes, during that Spring I did hear him refer to Mrs. Cabot; I heard him mention her name. I remember one time I heard it distinctly.

MISS GERTRUDE FITZPATRICK, who is suing estate of James M. Fairfield, for second time, for $125,000 for his alleged failure to provide for her for life.

SAYS FAIRFIELD PROMISED TO WED

Miss Gertrude Fitzpatrick is expected to resume the witness stand today to tell Judge Sanderson and a jury the story of her life as housekeeper for the late James M. Fairfield, whose estate she is suing the second time for $125,000 for alleged breach of contract to provide for her for life. The first trial resulted in a disagreement.

Miss Fitzpatrick testified that she was a housekeeper for Fairfield, who promised to marry her. At the time of the promise, she said, Fairfield was seventy-two and she twenty-five.

He failed to keep his promise, she testified, giving as his reason that he had been advised against it by a physician, and asked her to continue with him as housekeeper, promising to provide substantially for her for life.

Miss Fitzpatrick told how Fairfield had given her bonds valued at $10,000, at the same time telling her he would make other investments for her benefit. She denied that she had ever admitted, at a previous trial, that she would never marry as long as Fairfield lived. She explained that if she did say it, she must have misunderstood the question asked.

IDENTIFY WOMAN TRAGEDY VICTIM

NEW YORK, March 2.—The pretty young blonde woman who died with Charles St. Clair of this city in the Hotel Windsor in Philadelphia last night was identified today as Mrs. Harry Hall, whose husband is said to be in Waukegan, Ill., dying of tuberculosis. The tragedy was the outgrowth of St. Clair's mad infatuation for the young woman. A chum of Mrs. Hall declared that St. Clair had lured his victim to Philadelphia.

"St. Clair told Mrs. Hall that he would make her a brilliant moving picture actress," said Mrs. Ramsey.

"St.Clair was madly infatuated with the girl and managed her with his attentions. Time after time Mrs. Hall asked St.Clair to leave her alone, but he refused. He often threatened to kill her and she was afraid of him."

Mrs. Hall's maiden name was Edna Potter and she lived for a while in Bridgeport, Ct.

Melodramatic circumstances attended the crime. According to Philadelphia dispatches, St.Clair and his companion arrived at the Hotel Windsor on Saturday. Late yesterday inquiry was made for the couple over the long distance telephone from this city and they were found dead. Mrs. Hall's body was in the bath tub with a bullet wound in the forehead. She had been dead for some time, St. Clair body was lying on the floor of an adjoining room. He had shot himself in the mouth and his corpse was still warm.

St. Clair had written to his wife in New York notifying her of his intention to "do the cowardly act." Mrs. Sinclair, who is an invalid, wrote a pleading letter to Philadelphia asking her husband to do nothing rash and a short load a friend call the Windsor upon the telephone.

A note left by St. Clair contained the following postscript:

"I am sorry for the trouble I am causing and ask that you please look after my estate, as it is very valuable."

St. Clair was formerly a prizefighter and fought all over the world. The cane was given to hi min Hong Kong ten years ago. The dead man formerly owned a chain of restaurants but squandered all his money, and recently had been operating a taxicab which he owned himself. He told his friends that he was going out "on one last grand flyer, then end it all." He made good his boast.

SCORE JOHN D. JR. IN HOUSE REPORT

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Harsh criticism of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and of an injunction to the Colorado coal mine operators to arbitrate were the keynotes of a report filed in the House today by a subcommittee of the mines and mining committee which investigated the Colorado coal strike.

"Greater interests than those of Mr. Rockefeller in these mines or all the coal mining interests of Colorado," says the report, "have been submitted to arbitration, and many lives would have been spared and men, women and children would be living today who were sacrificed during this controversy had this course been pursued."

Rockefeller was declared "obstinate," and sarcastic reference was made to his philanthropic work in wider fields, while doing little or nothing in Colorado.

The report did not attempt to fix definitely, responsibility for the battle between strikers and militia, and mine guards in Colorado. It said both sides were guilty of lawlessness.

That the militia "appeared partial to the coal operators" and that members were guilty of brutality was asserted.

FILE MINORITY REPORT.

Chairman Foster and Representatives Evans and Sutherland signed the majority report. A minority report was presented by Representative Byrnes of South Carolina, who contended the majority exceeded its authority by becoming a vehicle of publicity. Representative Austin of Tennessee submitted a separate report filing all testimony taken and referring it to the Industrial Relations Commission for any action deemed necessary.

The majority report finds:

That the Colorado operators had brusquely refused all arbitration overtures.

That the operators did not continue in restraint of trade by limiting output.

Peonage of miners was not fully proven.

Machine guns, deputies and strike-breakers were imported into Colorado.

Criticises Colorado officials for not stopping sales of guns and ammunition.

Both sides went to excesses and caused "anarchy" in southern Colorado.

Many men were thrown into jail by the militia and denied civil rights to be heard fried.

Juries had been packed with deputy sheriffs.

Regarding Rockefeller the majority report said:

SCORES ROCKEFELLER.

"Mr. Rockefeller disclaimed responsibility. Absentee owners of property cannot escape their moral responsibility for conditions in and about properties in which they are interested.

"Mr. Rockefeller has done a great deal for the uplift of people in other parts of the country and in foreign lands, spending millions of dollars, yet he has not endeavored to improve conditions in the mines of the 6,000 employes of the company with which he is connected, and has not visited the State in more than ten years."

"Drys" Gain Six Towns, Lose One, in Bay State Voting

Seven of the 178 towns holding town meetings changed sides on the liquor question. Clinton went no-license for the first time since 1906; Athol, Norfolk, Oxford, Shelburne and Natick went no-license, Leominster flopped to license by twelve votes, going wet for the first time in twenty-nine years.

The citizens of North Reading voted not to change the name of the town, although $10,000 has been offered by a former citizen for the privilege of selecting the new name. The identity of the mysterious "ex-citizen" was announced for the first time as Representative Jared B. McLean.

The vote in Wakefield for water commissioners is taken to indicate that at the next town meeting, the citizens will vote to retain the town's present water system instead of connecting into the Metropolitan system. Dr. James H. Kimball, Harvey J. Skinner and Richard H. Hosman were elected. The biggest vote in the history of the town was cast—over 2,000.

In Watertown the Republicans took a clean sweep at every office, not a single Democrat being elected. Practically the entire voting strength was polled.

Hanover not only turned out the biggest vote in history, but also marshalled 100 women at the town meeting. This display was due to the offer of fifty cents each for every woman present — made by Everett Hall of New York, and to the offer of $25 for town improvements on condition that 100 women turned out.

In Winthrop the interest centred about the election of selectmen. Who's winners were Joshua Remby, Winthrop Magee and James Carr.

Harvard and Tech Men in Infantry

A machine gun company in the Eighth Massachusetts Infantry has been formed from students at Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The full complement will be fifty men. The term of enlistment is three years. Captain J. F. Burnham, assisted by Lieutenant W. G. Renwik, will be in charge of the company.

East Boston Police Arrest 3 Burglars at Point of Guns

After a struggle in which the police drew their revolvers and threatened to shoot, three youngsters were captured in the act of robbing the store of N. W. Woodside at No. 88 West Eagle street, East Boston. They gave their names as John J. Cunningham, of Condor street; Michael J. Harrington, of Havre street, and Daniel Harrington, of London street, all of East Boston.

Residents in the vicinity of the store noticed the three men standing in front of the place and called the East Boston police station. A squad of patrolmen arrived just as the men, after forcing one of the doors to the rear entrance, were jimmying another leading directly into the store. Policeman Quinn was in the lead and the youngsters jumped upon him. Quinn pulled out his revolver. Still the men threatened resistance, and not until the other patrolmen appeared with drawn guns did they surrender.

BROOKLINE WANTS NEW TOWN PLAN

Confronted by the question of the legality of its town meetings, Brookline has submitted to the Legislature today an innovation in town government providing for precinct voting and limited representation in town meeting.

Alfred D. Chandler, an expert on government, told the Committee on Towns that the proposed form of town charter would eliminate the question of legality.

"We have 5,500 voters in Brookline," he said, "and not more than 800 voters can crowd into the Town Hall at one time. Naturally the voters who cannot get in are not represented. Taxation without representation is tyranny, and it is a physical impossibility for more than 800 taxpayers to be represented when the appropriation bills are passed. I am somewhat doubtful if the town of Brookline can actually hold a legal town meeting.

"I will not say that the present condition is inviting graft, but at least it is inviting irregularity."

The proposed change would divide the town into from eight to twelve precincts of 500 voters each.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By making at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Advertisement.

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS?

This question and "How to Prevent Colds" is asked a thousand times every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but due to a disordered condition of the blood or lack of important food elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the body better able to withstand the varying elements.

This is the underlying reason why the medicinal fats in Scott's Emulsion quickly overcome colds and build strength to prevent more serious sickness. It contains nature's medicinal fats, so skillfully prepared that the blood profits from every drop, and is free from harmful drugs or alcohol.

PAVLOWA SCORES IN REAL DANCING

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Anna Pavlowa is unique among dancers. At a period when the world is dancing ugly, ungraceful dances to barbaric rhythms and cheap and trashy melodies, this supreme dancer exemplifies the beauty, dignity and traditions of the ballet.

Pavlowa and her Russian dancers have come to Boston for a single week and are to be found at the historic old Boston Opera House, where the operatic ballet finds plenty of sympathy and understanding.

Everybody in Boston should see Pavlowa and visualize the difference between real dancing and the camel-like progression known as ball room dancing today.

Music is the soul of dancing and the whole treasury of good music has been culled to provide Pavlowa with proper harmony. During the week eight different ballets will be presented by the Russians. Last night the bill commenced with "Amarilla," a one-act drama of Gypsy life arranged by Ivan Clustine and set to music chosen from the works of Tschaikowsky.

The second part was a one-act ballet also arranged by Clustine portraying the spirit of the music of Chopin. The music was selected by Glasounoff, himself a noted ballet composer, from the etudes, preludes, valses and mazourkas of Chopin. The evening ended with a set of divertissements by the star and her leading dancers.

Pavlowa is no longer a stranger in Boston. Her amazing proficiency in the art of toe dancing, miming and dramatic expression is well known. In "Amarilla" all these arts are displayed. She is assisted by Volinine, a sturdy masculine dancer who suggests Mordkin at times.

In the Chopinana, Clustine himself is her partner, a male dancer of a different type from Volinine, but one who is an admirable actor as well as dancer.

The chorus is as stunning in appearance and as agile of limb as upon former visits. The orchestra is not quite as large as the admirer of the Russian dancers would wish but it is admirably managed by Theodore Stier.

Bowdoin Square.

The T. F. Thoman Musical Comedy Company presented vaudeville that was genuinely amusing yesterday at the Bowdoin Square Theatre and the twelve girls and comedians in the company kept the house in uproars. "Pin Price Is Fair," in four reels, based on the famous book of Ellis Wheeler Wilcox, the gifted writer of the AMERICAN, is being shown.

Howard Atheneum.

Cora Livingston, the world's champion lady wrestler, is at the Howard Atheneum. The burlesque entertainment was furnished at the opening performance by Miner's Americans with Billy McIntyre in the role of principal comedian and Marcelaine Montague, La Belle Helene, Anna Belmont, Tillie Berlin, Emily Simpson and others in the lineup.

Grand Opera House.

The Big Sensation Burlesque Company received a most enthusiastic welcome yesterday at the Grand Opera House. Lydia Gossip, the "Little Nightingale," Mamie Champion, Larry Smith and the famous Brown Trio delighted in full measure and this show proved one of the best of the season.

Correct Way to Treat Skin Diseases.

Both air and water seem to have a bad effect upon those afflicted like Eczema, of which there are many forms. Keeping out the water and air is the first thing to do. By using Cadum, the well-known remedy for skin troubles, the air is largely excluded, because Cadum contains petrolatum and it will be seen that these form a tight covering over the sore places upon the skin. Cadum also contains oil of cade, which has been successfully used many years by the medical profession in the treatment of Eczema and other skin troubles. If your skin is inflamed, irritated or sore, get a 15c box of Cadum of your druggist and try it. The 25c size box contains nearly four times as much as the 15c size and is cheaper to buy.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE.

Miss Ann Murdock, most recent of stars, opened at the Hollis street Theatre last night in a new play by Porter Emerson Brown, author of "A Fool There Was," entitled "A Old Fashioned Girl." There was a large and friendly audience and Miss Murdock won a deserved success. The play will be reviewed in detail in Wednesday's AMERICAN.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

"The Third Party," with Walter Jones and Taylor Holmes in the leading parts, opened last night at the Plymouth. The piece is a farce full of mirth and action. It will be reviewed at length in Wednesday's AMERICAN.

MISS CROSMAN AT KEITH'S THEATRE

Sentiment for worldwide peace was expressed last night by the audience that vigorously applauded the anti-war playlet, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," as presented by Henrietta Crosman and company in Keith's Theatre. The piece was written for Miss Crosman by Maurice Campbell, and the accompanying stage setting makes of it a most dramatic appeal for universal disarmament, bringing home to the hearts of all as she does the terrors of war and the futility of appeals to arms as a settlement of nations' disputes. The playlet gives a strong company full scope for a variety of talent and "Thou Shalt Not Kill" becomes a most powerful presentation.

Miss Crosman is only one of several stars of the week at Keith's. One of the daintiest and most tuneful musical comedies ever staged in vaudeville is "The Blue Hen," wherein a host of immigrant girls are magically transformed into great beauties of the world. Eileen Von Biene shone in the all-star cast, and Will J. McCarthy and Morrison H. Weldon aided in making the spectacle one of delight.

An added treat was the appearance of Ramon Blanchart, popular baritone of the Boston Opera Company, in a variety of selections richly displaying his wonderful voice.

Jewett Players Score Again with Shakespeare Play

The Henry Jewett players gave an excellent performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Boston Opera House last evening. Miss Alice Moffat, seen for the first time with these players, had the role of Puck and was obliged to respond to several encores. Max Montesole was Quince and Henry Crocker took the part of Bottom.

The productions at the Boston Opera House continue to be surprising. Few Midsummer Night's Dream given in Boston in so sumptuous a setting as the Jewett Players gave it last night. This revested most fantastic and charming of Shakespeare's comedies was accompanied last night by part of the incidental music written by Mendelssohn for the German productions of this play.

Miss Mary Forbes made a captivating and most convincing Hermia, while Leonard Wiley as Lysander proved an ardent lover. Others in the cast deserving of much credit include: George Ralph as Oberon, Viola Compton as Titania and Ines and Cecile Dunbar as Moth and Mustardseed.

Orpheum Theatre.

The patrons of the Orpheum Theatre witnessed an all star vaudeville performance. The headline honors were given to Armstrong & Clark, famous song writers and authors of "Sweet Adeline." Among other features was Fred St. Onge and his troupe of cycling artists. Others to appear were Wm. K. Saxton and his players in a comedy playlet "Cloaks & Suits." The Six Steppers presented a dancing specialty. Willie Smith appeared in a repertoire of songs and recitations. Among the photo-plays was the tenth episode of the "Exploits of Elaine."

Scollay Square Olympia.

A very pleasant and entertaining program was given at the Scollay Square Olympia Theatre yesterday. The bill included Rosair and Rodgers, comedy knockabout comedians; Guy Bartlett, in singing and talking, Julia Redmund, in the riotous one-act playlet, "A Trip to New York," Johnson and Brickley, eccentric singing and dancing; De Pace Opera Company, in operatic and musical numbers; DeHall and Mulcahy, the Singer and Comedian," Apple of Paris Company presents Mlle. Mimi Amato in a wordless playlet in three scenes, with special scenery and effects.

Gaiety Theatre.

The Roseland Girls Company opened for a week's engagement at the Gaiety Theatre yesterday. The audience was very enthusiastic, for it was a show that pleases them all. There was plenty of singing and dancing, a bevy of pretty chorus girls, a few entertaining specialties and handsome scenic settings. "A Mix-Up at Reno" was the title of the two-part farce presented, and it went big. Sollly Ward in the part of an eccentric German created no end of amusement, and he was repeatedly applauded.

National Theatre.

The first of a series of exclusive motion picture films to be presented at the National Theatre was offered yesterday. The star was Andrew Mack in "The Ragged Earl." The production, in five acts and 289 scenes, far surpasses the original stage version of this delightful story. The scenes of "The Ragged Earl" are typical of the Irish country. "The Ragged Earl," with Andrew Mack, will be shown twice daily, every afternoon and evening this week.

Cecil Chesterton.

Considerable interest is manifested in the war debate to take place on next Thursday evening in Symphony Hall between Cecil Chesterton, editor of the New Witness, London, and Professor Edmund von Mach, author of "What Germany Wants."

'LILAC DOMINO' IS BILL AT MAJESTIC

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

If anything was needed to convince one that Andrew Dippel had brought a real grand opera company to the Majestic, it was furnished last night by two slips in the program announcing the indisposition of Eleanor Painter, the prima donna, and Wilfred Douthitt, the baritone.

Comic opera singers never get ill, but as soon as a singer breaks into grand opera then the usual petty indisposition seems to begin. However, in this case it wasn't such a calamity, for two young people were introduced in the leading roles of "The Lilac Domino," which is very capable, and enabled Mr. Dippel to give a performance which was quite up to the standard of any light opera organization which has been here this year.

Dippel wasn't satisfied.

"Something was going spleendidly," he declared, "but I am sorry to have been compelled to open without our two great singers. It is different opera when they sing. Those people will come back and hear them."

Just as it was given last night, "The Lilac Domino" is a very charming entertainment. I don't know how wonderful Miss Painter may be, but I am glad to have seen the bright and fragrant Ethel Smith in the soprano part. Here is a fine little actress with a good soprano voice, who will make her mark in comic opera, even if one or two numbers in this opera are a bit beyond her as yet.

"The Lilac Domino" is a German comic opera imported by Dippel before Britain declared its embargo. The score is by Von Gattl and Jenbach is a writer in a pretentious manner, calls for a big orchestra and there is considerable dramatic recitative. The melodies are fresh, but while I noted little that was dazzlingly original it is always very pleasant to the ear.

H. Kirkbride, who stepped out of the chorus to sing the leading baritone part, has a thin but singularly agreeable voice. He acquitted himself very well, everything considered.

Rene Detling, a beautiful woman with an exceptional voice, has an important part. There are five males who furnish what comedy resides in the piece, which is not sufficient, by the way. They are George Curzon, James Harron, John T. Hazzard, Robert O'Connor and Harry Hermann.

Jeanne Maubourg, a former Metropolitan mezzo soprano, also occupies an important position in the piece. The orchestra last night was conducted with much spirit by Milan Roder.

The story is trivial. A girl masquerades in a lilac domino and a young man pursues her through three acts. Then he discovers she is a girl he had agreed to marry for her money. In the end he marries her and though he loves her he doubtless gets the money. The atmosphere is that of Nice in carnival time. The carnival spirit is cleverly assisted by Kinemacolor moving pictures of the actual carnival of Nice.

Globe Theatre.

A special performance of vaudeville features was presented at the Globe Theatre yesterday. Heading the bill was the California tenor, Frank Morrell. A comedy playlet entitled "Mysterious Mr. Russell," kept the audience guessing. Wormwood's animals appeared in one of the best animal acts witnessed here this season. "The Three Dolce Sisters" presented a talking and singing novelty. Among the photo plays to appear was the tenth episode of the "Exploits of Elaine."

MERRY COMEDY AT THE TREMONT

Ethel Watts Mumford's satirical comedy, "Newly Wed, Nurse," was presented at the Tremont Theatre last night for the first time in Boston. It is a highly amusing, forget-your-troubles entertainment satirizing the Interstate Commerce Commission's investigation of stock manipulation and anti-trust law violations in which the dramatist finds material for hilarious situations and clever lines.

The plot deals with the attempts of a financier to dodge testifying at the investigation by the commission by feigning illness. With the help of a domineering aunt, two physicians, who help the financier to act sick, and others help the ruse.

Wilson Jay, a young Wall street man, the protege of one of the most famous financiers of the world, seeks to avoid attendance before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington. Brimming over with health, he finds quarters in a "sick room" almost maddening especially when accompanied by intrusion of relatives, a charlatan doctor, doctors and other inquisitive people. The more desperately young Jay behaves the more uproarious becomes the play. Through it all there is a delightful love story brought to a happy ending.

The company is capable. Hale Hamilton wins favor as Wilson Jay, the financier, and Miss Marie Chalmers is a charming physician. Others in the cast are: John Daly Murphy, Robert Ellis, Julia Ralph, William Rowells, Harold Russell, Hazel Lowery, Helen Barry, Redfield Clarke, Albert Travelier, Augusta Durgeon and Alma Mara.

St. James Theatre.

A splendid vaudeville show was presented by the Jay Burnside circuit yesterday. The headline honors were given Nel McKinley. Others to appear were a dramatic sketch, "Mother Detective." The juvenile star, Jean Southern, delighted with her original specialty. The Four Musical Avolos, billed as America's premier xylophone artists, lived up to their title. Among the photo plays to appear was the tenth episode of the "Exploits of Elaine."

Modern Theatre.

Another program of excellence is offered at the Modern Theatre for the first half of this week. The Pathe Parisum appears in the photo-adaptation of "A Gilded Fool." Mr. Parisum is supported by many capable players. The rest of the program included an interesting episode of "The Master Key," the latest Pathe Weekly and several comic and dramatic photo-plays.

Shubert Theatre.

The sale of seats for "Dancing Around" has opened at the Shubert Theatre. Jolson's popularity is so great that there is every indication of exceedingly large business. The entire house has been sold to members of Algiers Temple Shrine, who will attend the show on the evening of March 8th.

Plays That Remain

LE WILBUR—The long-lived farce, "Seven Days," which has a record of over 700 performances in New York, over 100 in Chicago, and six different companies playing in it throughout the United States and Canada, began its fourth week at Ye Wilbur Theatre last evening.

CORT—The third week of "Nearly Married," which began at the Cort Theatre last night, shows a popularity with the motion theatregoers that promises to keep Richard Bennett and his excellent supporting company many weeks in this city.

COLONIAL—"The Phantom Rival" remains as the attraction at the Colonial Theatre for the present week. After next Saturday night, however, local playgoers will have no further opportunity to make merry over the fantastic complications of the play, nor to enjoy Leo Ditrichstein's polished acting of the star role.

CASTLE SQUARE—"Common Clay," now in the eighth week of its run at the Castle Square Theatre is like a bolt of snow, which, as it rolls down hill, aggrandizes and gathers impetus. Since the play was produced the first week in January and word was passed about that an extraordinary novelty was to be seen at the Castle Square, the attendance has been enormous.

MARY BOYD—Beginning next week with Pauline Frederick in the similar role, began its second and last week at the Shubert last night before a large and appreciative audience.

Waldron's Casino.

Jon Hurtig's Social Maids are at Charlie Waldron's Casino all this week. As a result of advertising enterprise in the Sunday AMERICAN and the well-known merits of this great show, the theatre was packed to the doors at both performances yesterday. Mr. Hurtig has been especially lavish this year in this production. As stars he has George Stone and Etta Pillard, two of the cleverest exponents of dancing and light comedy that the stage possesses.

There is a most tuneful and amusing musical burlesque called "Busy Little Cupid."

Park Theatre

The Blazon Films Company, expert photoplay production, "Rule G.," is the feature attraction at the Park Theatre this week, and as presented for the first time yesterday proved one of the most interesting and best produced offerings from the "Paramount Pictures" program. The photoplay is based upon a widely read story, "Keeping John Barleycorn off the Train." The special musical program and the unusual high class short motion pictures and vocal numbers by Miss Madeline Buckley also met with approval.

CITIZEN BATTERS TWO HOLDUP MEN

The police expect to find the two holdup men who set upon John D. Grove of Fourth street, South Boston, in some hospital, Grove knocked one of them down with a blow in the face and then seised the weapon from the man, attacked the pair and in a few minutes had them subdued.

The second man was also armed with a blackjack, but both of them were no match for Grove, who beat them off, and both the robbers fled.

Grove went to Station 6 with the blackjack and turned it over to the police. He described his assailants and said that he could identify them in case they are apprehended.

Patrick Gallagher, of West Fifth street, was attacked on B street, near Athens. Reserve Officer Florence O'Regan heard cries for help and found Hickey lying on the ground.

O'Regan saw a man running away and gave chase. He pulled his revolver and threatened to shoot. The alleged robber stopped and was arrested. At the station he gave his name as John Gorham, twenty-three, of Roxbury.

Bill to Aid Maine Horse Industry

AUGUSTA, Me., March 2.—In the Senate today Senator William I. Walker of Somerset county introduced an act to promote the industry of horse breeding in Maine and provide for the registration of all horses.

The bill provides that the Stallion Registration Board is authorized to refuse a certificate of enrollment to any stallion affected with disease.

FAMOUS FOR HER HAIR

Actress Tells How to Obtain It.

Madame Rose, the well-known actress, who played on one of the leading vaudeville circuits the past winter and who is especially noted for her long, beautiful hair, in a recent interview in Chicago made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can promote the growth of their hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe which they can mix at home. To a half-pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ½ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. This is not only the finest hair grower I have ever known, but it prevents the hair from falling out, removes dandruff and scalp humors, darkens faded gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. The ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost."—Advertisement.

Brieux Play Fit for the Junk Pile, Declares Curley

"The only place for that play is the junk pile," declared Mayor Curley before the Boston Baptist Social Union at Ford Hall last night, giving his reason for deciding against the production of Brieux's "Maternity" in Boston for one night.

After urging Richard Bennett to give a special performance of "Maternity" for the benefit of the Equal Suffrage associations of Boston, Mr. Bennett was notified that through the action of the campaign committee the request was withdrawn.

The Mayor called basement tenements "annexes to the morgue" when describing the attempt of certain interests before a legislative committee at the State House to effect the repeal of the law enacted last year to prevent basement tenements being used as places of habitation.

George W. Coleman, president of the City Council, who succeeded from the floor hailed as Boston's next Mayor, said:

"Anybody who has seen what the Mayor of Boston has to do and still wants to be Mayor is crazy."

Exeter Street Theatre.

Marie Doro in "The Morals of Marcus" is the attraction at the Exeter Street Theatre this week and is one of the brightest and entertaining comedies ever shown on the film. It is from the Paramount program.

SCORES SUFFRAGE PLEA FOR FUNDS

Mrs. John Balch, president of the Public Interests League of the Massachusetts Anti-Suffrage Association, in a statement today attacks circulars sent out by the suffragists in an appeal for a $100,000 campaign fund. The antis quote these circulars as saying: "Do not put us off because of the demands made upon you by the Red Cross and the relief funds for the sufferers from the war."

"It is an amazing circular," says Mrs. Balch. "I am sorry that a circular containing such a sentiment has gone out from a woman's association.

"If following the 'cause,' as they call it, is going to mean that we are to pass wide-eyed and unseeing through the misery of the world in order that we may be able months or years from now to correct some wrong, then I am not a real believer in it.

"I sincerely hope that women, for the justification of their sex and in memory of all the traditions of ages which have made them dearer in the alleviation of distress, will still continue to help first the cry of the sick and poor, the wounded and suffering, rather than the demands of a cause."

Toy Theatre.

Mrs. Bellingston and the Toy Theatre company continue to present three show playlets "Great Catherine," "The Last Lady of the Sonnets" and Overruled."

The many eccentric bought about by Kennedy's Discovery are attracting wide attention. Read about this case:

"33 S. St., Keyser, W. Va. "Gentlemen:—I was taken sick in November, 1908. I grew steadily worse. Had two consultations. The verdict was the fever had affected my lungs and that my case was hopeless; only gave me two months to live. My physician had tried most all kinds of treatment and none did me any good, so he asked my husband if he objected to him trying a proprietary medicine, I was willing to try Alterative. I was in bed from November 30, 1908, until February 25, 1909, and was thought dying several times. Today I am healthier and stronger than before." (Abbreviated.)

HOT BATTLES FOR LEADING BERTHS IN GREATER BOSTON LEAGUE; EXPECT SHIFTS

M'GOORTY MEETS GIBBONS TONIGHT

BOUTS TONIGHT.

Ed. McGoorty vs. Mike Gibbons, Hudson, Wis.

Bob McAllister vs. Kid Wagner and Johnny Dundee vs. Ben Leonard, New York.

Jack Dillon vs. Tom McCarty, New York.

Pal Brown vs. Joe Azevedo, Windsor, Ont.

Bill Fleming vs. E. McIntyre, Bangor.

By JACK CONWAY.

THE citizens of Hudson, Wisconsin, will pay perfectly good money to see Mike Gibbons and Eddie McGeorty, boxers extraordinary, perform in a ten-round no-decision tussle this glorious March evening. The contest has been well advertised as for the dear old middleweight championship of the well-known universe. The "go" may be a regular, big league title affair but we are from Missouri when there is talk about a boxer winning a championship in a no-decision match.

Gibbons is one of the greatest middleweights developed in recent years. He has not only proven out claim to the championship but he has proved that he has a little something on the members of the 154-pound division. The St. Paul phantom recently hailed as the winner by the honorable members of the fourth estate.

IT will not be necessary for any kind-hearted person to furnish Gibbons and McGoorty, as they are old pals. If you question this statement, we would advise you to look over the newspaper files of December 5, 1912. They will inform you that Gibbons and McGoorty engaged in a ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden, New York the previous evening. The contest received a tremendous amount of advance advertising and it was expected to be a thrilling affair. The encounter, however, was a disaster as both boxers were over cautious.

THIS is the only real black mark on Gibbons' record. Since that time he has done some fine work within the hemp ropes and has conquered the majority of his opponents with ease.

The bout tonight should produce some clever boxing as there are few ring men who are well posted in the fine points of the game as Gibbons and McGoorty. The latter advances the information that he is able to fight as well as box and that he will carry the battle to his opponent. If he does this, the fight fans should witness some merry sport. Gibbons, however, is a pretty good comedian in the art of a boxer and a fighter and will give McGoorty plenty to worry about this evening.

"K. O." SWEENEY is in Havana with Leo Flynn and Frankie Mack. He has been matched to meet Dick Gilbert in a ten-round bout in Havana Saturday night.

"My boxers are in great condition," chirps Flynn, in a letter from the big Southern sporting centre. "Mack and Sweeney are training at a sixty-mile-an-hour clip and we expect to have quite a list of victories to our credit when we get back in the snowball country once again. It's pretty soft down here now. Nothing to do but sit under a palm tree and drink lemonade while a few darkies negro fans me and keeps the mosquitoes from playing tag on my noble brow.

LOOK FOR SHIFTS IN G. B. LEAGUE

A STANDING shift is expected to-night, when the Greater Boston League rollers meet in their weekly session. Rowe's Wharf at Murray is the feature match and a big gallery is sure to be on hand when these teams lineup.

ROWE'S WHARF is today in second place and Murray in fourth, but a big victory for the south End rollers would put them in the runner-up position.

BOWDOIN SQUARE, the league leaders, will perform against Eglestion Square at the Eglestion Square alleys. The Eglestion Square boys are in third place, but a few points back of Rowe's Wharf, and they will roll their best game in their efforts to overtake the Atlantic avenue rollers. Casino rolls at Regal. Winthrop at Brunswick Loop, and Terminal at Cambridge.

CHARLES RENNIG, one of the best known bowlers in this city, has teamed up with Walter Haley, and the two challenge Zerwits and Halpi of Springfield to a twenty-string match for a $50 side bet. Rennig, rolling a little ahead of his fellow partner, was recently defeated by the Springfield bowlers.

EDDIE DION and "Bo" Hartford would like nothing better than a twenty-string match with Kelly and Hallock, the knocker of the Eglestion Square alleys.

THE fight for first place in the Newton League is one of the best of the season, with the following prize winners: First team prize, Crimmons & Peirce; second team prize, Farnsworth, Stevenson & Co.; third team prize, Mauger & Avery; pinfall, Crimmons & Peirce with 2,787; high three-string team total, Farnsworth, Stevenson, 1,465; high single string team total, Francis, Willey Co., 507; first individual average, George W. Brown, 96; second individual average, E. M. Brown, 95; high three-string individual, George Russell, jr., 349; high single, Norman Curray, 132.

OSCAR SWANSON of the Blake & Knowles League surprised himself the other night by hitting the maples for 151.

COACH ANDERSON of the Blake & Knowles League, South Gallery team, can see first place fading away in the distance in spite of all his efforts.

"SILENT" STRICKLAND of the Main Floor team, Blake & Knowles League, broke all league records Friday night when he hit the pins for a three-string total of 324.

THE Dorothy Dodd team has but one more victory to win in order to claim the championship of Plant's factory. This team defeated the Queen Quality five for the second consecutive time, and is picked to take the third match. The team is composed of Elgee and Melling, the former Casino bowlers; Leonard of last year's Old Colony team, Harding of Bowdoin Square and Bowen, the high average man in the Knights of Columbus League.

SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

In the one who picks out the best team in the National League, using the names of players who took part in one or more National League championship games last season, I will give a box (six seats) for any game played by the Braves on home grounds this season—saturdays and holidays included—the winner may select.

And,

To the one who picks out the best team in the American League, using the names of players who took part in one or more American League championship series last season, I will give a box (six seats) for any game played by the Red Sox on home grounds this season—Saturdays and holidays included—the winner may select.

Answers will be filed as received and the first one to meet closes they will be examined. I will select the four best of the big league managers to help me pick the winners of the contest—that is, I will ask them to name the best team that could be picked in the American and National Leagues, and with these expert selections as a basis the contest will be judged. Of course, if more than one reader picks the same combination, the prize will be awarded to the first received.

Send in as many entries as you like, but a coupon must be used in every case.

MACON, Ga., March 2.—Say, fans, it sure is great to be back again at baseball. We're getting ready now to leave for the first workout and the whole crowd is full of the old pep. The Braves today are like the players on a high school team, who have just received a set of new suits and are going out to show them to their admiring friends.

The old spirit that carried us through last year is right on the job and every member of the club, or thinking pennant and all of us are out for a lot of hard work and set into the game right for the opening of the season. We want to get one of those flaming starts and believe me, we're going to get it.

George Stallings is the same old cuss he used to be. Of course, he was glad to give us all a few days' rest after the holidays, but when we landed last night. He's like a father to the whole lot of us and shows it now and then. This morning, though, he's the manager. It's easy to see that he's out for bear from the drop of the hat. He's going to make things hum around here all right.

Stallings is mighty well pleased with the condition of the bunch. There's not a player who isn't right to get down to fighting weight in a few days. The condition of things would please any baseball fan, for everybody is much hard work off his shoulders and has turn his attention to the real baseball without any delay waiting for regulars to round to.

The farming life in the Fall and Winter is a mighty good thing for ball players. If the Braves' agriculturists can be taken for samples, Connolly, Tyler and the others who worked out doors are hard as nails and appear fit to go through any kind of a campaign with flying colors. Livestock and vegetables make a very congenial topic of conversation, too, and when the crowd gets loosened up would think a Grange meeting was going on.

Speaking of Connolly, the Woonsocket slugger should have a mighty fine year in 1915 if he was held back at the start because he had to go to fight on his bad leg. His underpinning this season is apparently as right as a trivet and with nothing to bother him, Joe is likely to surprise the world.

We've got to be leaving soon for that first practice, so I must be brief today, because I wouldn't miss being there for a whole lot. However, once the playing is on, I'll have a whole bunch of news to give the fans every day.

Melrose High's Defeat Causes Hockey Tangle

Newton High sprung the surprise of the hockey season when it defeated the Melrose High seven by a score of 2 to 1. That was the opinion of schoolboy followers today.

Up to its defeat at the hands of Newton, the Melrose team looked to have the Interscholastic League title clinched but now it is possible for Medford to tie them for first place. This can be accomplished if Arlington defeats Melrose in their return game at the Arena, Friday evening.

Newton superb defence proved the undoing of Melrose. La Croix, at goal, was a veritable stonewall, stopping shot after shot directed at the Newton cage. Cathy scored both goals for the winners by some clever stick handling.

Norwood High Plans Baseball Campaign

Captain Leonard Derrick of the Norwood High School baseball team will call out the candidates for practice early next week. He has considerable good material from which to make selections. Manager Lawrence Folkins is making up his schedule, but has several open dates for which he would like to secure games.

The schedule follows:

Mar 1, Charlestown Evening High School at Norwood; May 3, open; May 5, open; May 6, Hingham High at Norwood; May 10, open; May 12, Dedham High at Norwood; May 14, Belmont High at Norwood; May 18, Winthrop High at Winthrop; May 20, open; May 22, open; May 26, Milton High at Norwood; May 28, Hingham High at Norwood; May 29, Hingham High at Norwood; May 31, open; June 2, Boston College High at Boston; June 5, Northeastern High at Northeastern; June 8, Hyde Park High at Norwood; June 9, West Roxbury High at West Roxbury; June 12, open.

Address for games: Lawrence Folkins, Norwood High School, Norwood, Mass.

Quincy Cup Challenge.

The Corinthian Yacht Club has issued a challenge to the Boston Yacht Club for the Quincy cup.

KEADY IN CHARGE AT MANCHESTER

Tom Keady has again taken over the "floating franchise" in the New England League and will today confer with a committee from the Amoskeag mills in an effort to secure the Textile Field at Manchester, N. H. If Keady is unsuccessful it is probable that he will locate his club at Haverhill.

The final makeup of the New England League circuit will be decided upon tomorrow.

With Keady in his latest undertaking are James E. Smith of New Bedford and Johnny Kiernan. The latter will manage the team, while Keady will assume the presidency and treasurership.

There is talk of cutting a week from the New England League schedule by playing the last games on Labor Day.

Changes Expected in Harvard Crews

It is probable that several changes will be made in the Harvard crews today. Coach Wray got out on the river for the first time yesterday and had a chance to see his men work from close range. Second freshman—Wiggin stroke, Knauth 7, Storr 6, Williams 5, Dingman 4, Morgan 3, Fiedler 2, Dolge; bow, Jackson; coxswain.

Owing to the abrupt ending of the Professional Billiard Players' League, which kept Harry Cline and Jake Schaefer from appearing in Boston, play was resumed in the amateur class. A tournament at the Imperial. The competitors were William Page and Harry Parker, the former winning 500 to 205.

Page played some pretty billiards, even if his good innings were somewhat spasmodic. He ran twenty-five in the thirteenth inning and forty-six in the fortieth.

NEW BOXING BILL IN LEGISLATURE

Eddie Keevin has organized his forces and is ready to start the fight to legalize boxing in Massachusetts. He says that the chances are very bright for the glove game to be placed on a firm legal basis in the Bay State this year.

The new bill will put all professional boxing bouts under the direction of the State Department of Health.

In order for any club to conduct bouts, it would be obliged to file a bond of $2,000. This would prove to officers meant business.

It would not be necessary for a club to pay over a percentage of the gate receipts to the State. The only tax would be a fee of $300 which would be paid once a year in advance.

The bill also allows for fines. No fine would be more than $500 and if the officers of a club refused to pay a fine they would forfeit part of their bond.

The boxing game would be placed in charge of a supervisor who would engage necessary assistants, the total number of which, including the supervisor of boxing, are limited to $4,000 a year.

McCarey to Stage Bouts at New Haven

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—T. J. McCarey, the former Los Angeles promoter, will probably stage a few big fights in New Haven, Ct., prominent men of that town, who have asked that their names be withheld, having offered the Pacific Coast promoter inducements to come to New Haven and stage a couple of good matches.

McCarey stated that he had been assured by the New Haven men that twenty rounds would be allowed, and that he would be aided in every way in producing some big battles, such as Lightweight and bantamweight championships.

Jack Read Loses His Australian Title

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—Before the smallest crowd that has seen a fight here in years, Jack Read, the Australian lightweight champion, lost his title to Vic Moran of New Orleans at the end of fifteen rounds, when Referee Dick Burke declared Moran the winner.

Both men fought hard, but Read's years were against him and the younger man at times made a punishing bag of him.

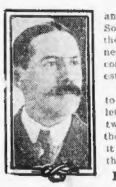
Sweeney Should Help Sox Bill to Be Utility Man

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.



A. H. C. Mitchell.

"Policy Bill" Sweeney, the demon insurance man and pill merchant, is now under contract to the Red Sox. This was announced in the Sporting Extra of the Boston AMERICAN last night, and the morning newspapers today followed with the news and made considerable display of it. So the fact is pretty well established by this time.

Nevertheless, the story of how Policy Bill came to sign a Red Sox contract is interesting. Bill was let out by Manager Bresnahan of the Chicago Cubs two or three weeks ago. He had a fat contract with the Cubs, but it had one of those ten-day clauses in it which made it, merely a "scrap of paper," when the Cubs decided to let Bill go.

HAD MANY OFFERS BUT NONE SUITED.

The move was made for economical reasons, but as a result of it Bill was made a free agent, which gave him the right to sign with any ball club he could make terms with.

Policy Bill had several offers, but one of them suited his fancy. He anted to remain in Boston, if possible. His home is in Cambridge, and in winter he pursues his career as a writer of insurance. He has many friends here.

He dropped into the Red Sox offices yesterday afternoon. Manager Carrigan was walking through the hall when Bill appeared.

Conversation That Led to the Signing.

"Hello, Bill," said Policy Bill.

"Hello, Bill," said Manager Bill.

"Have you any idea of signing me for the Red Sox?" asked Policy Bill, casually.

"I can't say that I have," replied Manager Bill, also casually.

"Well, do you want to see me?" inquired Policy Bill.

"Not unless you want to see me," replied Manager Bill.

"I would like to see you for about five minutes," remarked Policy Bill.

"I'm all fixed on insurance, remarked Manager Bill.

"It isn't insurance. It's something else," said Policy Bill.

"All right, step in my office," said Manager Bill.

The door closed behind the two Bills and fifteen minutes later Manager Bill announced that he had signed Policy Bill for the Red Sox.

Neither side to the agreement had anything to announce as to salary paid. It is, of course, taken for granted that Policy Bill's emoluments as a member of the Red Sox band will not total as heavy as last season. But that is all right. Policy Bill didn't expect it. His main desire was to remain a member of some Boston club.

Bill Will Be Used as Utility Infielder.

Sweeney will not be used as a regular. Carrigan has never seen Policy Bill play ball, but, of course, he knows all about him. That's the business of a baseball manager.

Sweeney will doubtless be used as a utility infielder and pinch hitter. Bill always was a sweet hitter. He is a right-field hitter for the most part, although many of his drives go over second base.

Sweeney figures he has some good years of ball playing left in him. Last season his legs were in bad shape, but he believes a course or baths at Hot Springs will do him a lot of good.

He will take his family to Cincinnati, his old home and the headquarters of his pill business, today, and after seeing them safely housed will continue on to Hot Springs, arriving there about March 15, just when the first squad of Red Sox players will begin practicing under Manager Bill.

A Fine Treatment For Catarrh

Easy to Make and Costs Little

If you suffer from Catarrh, head noises, sore throat, asthma, or Catarrhal deafness, here is a fine recipe that often gives relief after other treatments have failed.

Its effect in the worst cases is usually most striking and positive. The correct method of treating Catarrh we believe is to employ a remedy that will quickly drive the catarrhal poisons from the system and at the same time by tonic action increase the vitality, which is always lowered by this insidious disease. To do this, we believe the following formula to be really the best prescription, as it acts quickly, costs little and can be easily prepared at home.

From your Druggist obtain one ounce of Parmint (Double Strength,) shake the world into this bottle and add to it one-quarter of a pint of hot water and four ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should begin to relieve the most miserable headache, dizziness, sneezing spells, nasal catarrh, throat tickling, hawking, hoarseness and other bothersome symptoms that always accompany this distressing disease.

Loss of smell defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrh and which may be overcome by the use of this simple treatment.

Every person who has Catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial—Advertisement.

Omega Oil FOR Rheumatism and Lumbago

Soak a towel in boiling water, wring dry and place it over the aching part for a moment to help open the pores. Then rub in plenty of Omega Oil. You will be surprised at the quick relief this simple treatment gives. 10c, & 25c. a bottle.

NEWSBOYS TO GIVE 'HAPPY' SENDOFF

The Boston newsboys are going to give "Happy," king of 'em all, a rousing sendoff when he hits the trail for Hot Springs Thursday morning as a member of the Red Sox party. The news merchants have planned a monster parade, and at least 3,000 youths are expected to be in line.

The paraders will be led by the newsboys' band, which is a real, big league affair. It has a batting average of .1000, while it has yet to boot one in the field.

The parade will form in front of the Boston Newsboys' Club at No. 277 Tremont street at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. The newsboys' band will set the pace, and it will be followed by a number of automobiles which will carry "Happy," President Lannin of the Red Sox, E. L. Perron, superintendent of the Newsboys' Club, members of the Red Sox, and celebrities in the sporting world and leaders in newsboys' enterprises.

Then will come the newsies, big and newsies small. They will mass together like a legion of old and will march merrily to the South Station, where "Happy" and the rest of the Red Sox party will board the dear old rattler for Hot Springs, the land of perpetual sunshine, famous mineral baths, cowboys, real live Indians, old-fashioned darkies and BASEBALL.

Braves in First Workout Bill James Not in Camp

By NICK FLATLEY

NICK FLATLEY.

MACON, Ga., March 2.—Today's the day. The long wait of the Winter is ended and the champion Braves hold the first practice workout of the season on the park here. Manager Stallings is on hand and so are most of the regulars and irregulars of the outfit. Everything is set for a flying start, which fact no doubt is just what makes the Braves squad the same kind of a joyful party it was on the well remembered October evening of the fourth World Series game in the year of 1914.

BILL JAMES HAS NOT YET REPORTED.

The only cloud to dim a generally bright outlook is the fact that Bill James has not as yet reported, and it begins to look as though the twirler was more or less serious in his declaration of independence issued some time back. Stallings, however, and the players, are fairly confident that Bill will breeze into town very shortly. At all events they figure that he will send some word as to just what his intentions are.

It is now more than two months since anything has been heard from Bill despite the fact that several letters have been sent out to him on that dear Pacific slope. The others of the squad who have not reported are expected any minute, allowance being made for railroad delays and similar things.

The players are all somewhat anxious to get some first hand information about the Macee deal. It is the general opinion of those most concerned that infielder Dugey and one of the young pitchers will go to the Quakers, but even at that not a few of the regulars will sleep easier when the official tidings relieve what apprehension exists.

Johnny Evers Says Braves Will Repeat.

Johnny Evers, who has had his family in the South for the past month, was likewise in a joyful and optimistic mood. The Trojan, who looked perfectly natural and showed no signs of his Winter illness, did not hesitate to say that the Braves would repeat.

"Things look mighty bright for us," he declared, "and we will show the other birds in the league that we are not morning glory champions. My stay down here has made me feel like a two-year-old and I just have to pull that old stuff about having a big season. I feel that way and simply have to say so."

Manager George Stallings, the "miracle man," was on hand, all smiles, at greeting his Champions once more when they landed last night. The big leader enjoys the game just as much as do any of the players and was just as anxious as any of them to get down to business.

"It's been a long wait, this past Winter," he said, after exchanging greetings with all hands, and I'm mighty glad it's over. We should have a fine season, and while I will not predict anything, I'll be a greatly disappointed individual if we don't get away to a good start. Of course it will do the team no good to have Bill James missing, but I am still hopeful that the big spitballer will fix matters up with President Gaffney. If he doesn't, however, we will waste no time regretting his absence, but will set to work to make one of the youngsters fill his place.

"We have plenty of young pitchers who are going to make their mark and, accordingly, we will be just as strong, if not a whole lot stronger, in the box than we were a year ago.

"The first practice will be held this morning if the uniforms and paraphernalia can be unshipped in time, but there will be a session in the afternoon despite all delays.

Braves in Great Trim and Ready for Play.

While Stallings would say nothing definite as to just what plans he had in mind for the training, he intimated that it was his intention to start off at once getting his team into shape for "inside baseball." He has practically no places to fill, and once arms and muscles are in shape and the very few new recruits tried out, he can get down to serious business and, barring accident, have a real team in real trim when the curtain goes up on the season some month and two weeks hence.

Judging by appearances, these Braves are, almost without exception, ready this minute for baseball. Not a man in the outfit but has been doing gymnasium stunts or outdoor work during the winter. As a result very little extra beef is being carried.

A few players are a few pounds over weight, but they are the exception rather than the rule. There is none of that app-arance of roundity and easy life that marks the members of most teams in the halcyon—for the fans, not players—days of the Spring training.

There was a glad sort of welcome tendered the stars who arrived here last night from Boston and points along the line, shortly before 10 o'clock. The prominent citizens of here were right on the job to show that Macon is real proud to be the training headquarters of the world's champions.

After today's workout the schedule will call for two practice spells per diem, one at ten in the morning and the other at two in the afternoon.

AMERICAN THE HEADQUARTERS FOR AMATEUR BASEBALL TEAMS

Batter up! The Boston AMERICAN is going to be the headquarters of the semi-professional and amateur baseball teams this year, as usual.

The warm weather has caused the youngsters to get out their baseball togs and start organizing for 1915, and they will soon be doing their training stunts on the various playgrounds and lots throughout Greater Boston.

The AMERICAN will publish all semi-professional and amateur baseball challenges. The hustling, wide-awake managers will arrange their schedules at once. Get busy now and write out your challenges. Address Amateur Baseball Editor, Boston American, 80 Summer street, Boston.

RENEW FIGHT FOR FOLEY BAIL BILL

The fight to disorganize the alleged conspiracy between the police and the bail commissioners of Boston will be renewed today in the Senate.

Senator William J. Sullivan of South Boston assured Representative William J. Foley, author of the bill, that he would endeavor to secure reconsideration of the vote by which the senate defeated the bill. Not a word was spoken by the senate in rejecting the bill.

"The lobby has been working against the bill for weeks," said Representative Foley. "Senators tell me that local bail commissioners, in addition to the bail commissioners of Boston, have been 'putting on the screws' to defeat it. Word has also come from the police that the bill would impose too much responsibility upon them and they are against it."

The bill would require officers in charge of Boston police stations to accept bail in misdemeanor cases without fee.

"In South Boston there were more than 3,000 arrests last year," said Mr. Foley. "But I venture, if you look at the records before the police and certain bail commissioner became so friendly, you will find that the annual arrests did not exceed 5,000 a year.

"In Station No. 6 they arrested more than 100 men on Christmas Eve. In the next nearest station they arrested twelve. The people of South Boston believe there would not be so many arrests if the bail commissioners were not paid $2 apiece for bailing out the prisoners.

"It makes no difference whether it is a rehash man or a drunkard sleeping off the police yank them out of bed in the middle of the night."

CLAIM GOLDMAN'S BRIDE CONFESSED

NEW YORK, March 2—Instead of berating the men who raided her apartment by way of the fire escape, Mrs. Edith Ostend Goldman, twenty-year-old chorus girl bride of Robert Goldman, a Williams College student, greeted them with a puff of cigarette smoke and invited them to sit down and have a drink. They accepted the invitation and waited while she wrote out an alleged confession.

This is the testimony submitted to Justice Greenbaum and a jury by counsel for Robert Goldman, son of Henry Goldman, senior member of Goldman, Sachs & Co., in his suit for divorce. Mrs. Goldman, who has filed an answer denying the charges, testifies in her own behalf today.

Like her husband, she is an infant in the eyes of the law, and has to be represented by a legal guardian. She sat across the table from young Goldman, but he moved from his place to a point where he might avoid her gaze at the suggestion of his father.

It was last May when Goldman, then at Williams College, eloped to New Jersey with Miss Ostend, a girl from the chorus, and married her. After a brief honeymoon he departed for a long sojourn on his father's ranch in Colorado, and his bride remained her chorus work.

She has started a $100,000 alienation of affections action against her husband's father. He denies that he influenced his son to leave her.

Chester E. Mann, private secretary for the elder Goldman, testified: "When I got into her apartment at No. 66 West Ninth street early Monday, Mrs. Goldman was sitting on a couch with a man named Harris."

Over 400 Attend Regal Shoe Banquet

President Elmer J. Bliss, founder of the Regal Shoe Company, and Mrs. Bliss were the guests of the employes of that concern at their annual banquet and dance at the Hotel Somerset. Over 200 couples, included district managers and store managers from all over the country, attended. A duet by H. S. Campbell of New York and C. W. Peters of Chicago was well received, while Carroll Swan's imitation of Al Jolson was heartily applauded.

Those present from out of town included Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cross, St., M. W. Norvell of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. J. Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Monroe of Providence, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Sampson of Philadelphia, Dr. William M. Scholl of Chicago and A. S. Bryan of New York.

BUSINESS BETTER FOR 'BUY IT NOW'

The AMERICAN'S "Buy It Now" plan is selling more and more popular.

Merchants say "It is working fine." Salesmen from most mills in New York say it is of some advantage to them in their efforts. "Buy It Now," ahead of them in Boston.

W. H. Bradley, New England salesman for the Shackamaxon Mills, Philadelphia, said:

"It just rained from cats at other cities and I'm glad to see such a good plan as "Buy It Now" being agitated by the Boston AMERICAN.

"It is just what we want. Such a simple message as this given out in connection is bound to awaken a response.

"The mills are working night and day. When I go to sell any goods in Boston I must make a message. That is Now. I tell you people do not require so much to be informed as to a reminder. That is why I like this slogan means. It suggests to people, and that's just what we want to put in their minds. I can heartily speak in favor of this 'Buy It Now' plan as a sure way to keep up the interest of the public in what is going on in the buying line."

Manager E. M. Atherley for Bastian Brothers Company of Tremont street: "That just fits our case. I think much of the plan, but I had a talk with another business man and then we began to supply this to the retail business. In several instances we proved to our own satisfaction that the use of this phrase, 'Buy It Now,' does much to sell goods. Merchants with whom I have talked say they are going to get rid of much of their stock. They are not going to carry over till next season. They are willing to sell much cheaper and they are going to make room along their trade. It has worked like a charm in many instances.

"We are going to go on to talk it when you have any merchandise to sell. It's business to buy and sell and very good for the past month. Others tell me the same thing."

Andrew McCance, of No. 2 Park street:

"The plan is working well. We began to use it here and nothing in it at first. But you can use it with customers and they are willing to see that it is practical. It makes your customer talk about the goods and always gives you an opportunity to emphasize the advisability of buying now. I heard of its effect in this direction in two specific cases."

JOHN H. LAWSON OF MELROSE DEAD

John Henry Lawson, only brother of Thomas W. Lawson, the financier, died today at the home of his eldest daughter, Mrs. Walter L. Shepard, at No. 314 Vinton street, Melrose Highlands. He was fifty-six years old and had been ill three days. An attack of grippe aggravated fatally a condition of chronic diabetes from which he had suffered.

Mr. Lawson made a comfortable living in the manufacture of a patented medicinal salve, and was well known in Melrose, Malden and other suburbs north of Boston.

John Henry Lawson was two years younger than Thomas W. Lawson. The latter was fifty-eight years old last Friday. Both were born in Chelsea, and went to Thomas W. Lawson's State street office at one time.

John Henry Lawson was born in Charlestown, the son of Thomas and Anna (Lorrigan) Lawson. He was educated in the public schools. He married Miss Nellie Reading, whose family owned the medicinal interest which he took up later. Mrs. Lawson died in August, 1911.

Got to Go Deep to Cure Rheumatism

Liniments Help Locally, But the Disease is Way Down Inside.

To get at the source of rheumatic pains it requires the deep, searching influence of S. S. S., the famous blood purifier. Rheumatism is primarily a blood disease that, since it is in this vital fluid that rheumatic tendencies are carried, lodges in the most pliant place in the system—the muscles, where it causes irritate the nerves and produce pain. And in order to relieve these pain-inflicting poisons it requires S. S. S. to sink deep into the tiny glands imbedded in the intermost tissues. S. S. S. travels wherever the blood goes and never loses its medicinal influence. This explains why it overcomes the most chronic forms of rheumatism, why it dislodges those deep-seated poisons that the medical department. How Long Is This Country to Be Left Defenseless?

This Is the Time for Congress to Move for the Protection of the People, and to Fail to Do So Is Unpatriotic and Un-American

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

The necessity of the nation-wide campaign to secure adequate defenses for the country is very apparent.

Never has there been a time when the need of defenses was more plain than it is now.

Never has the awful result of the lack of defenses been so well illustrated as it has in the case of Belgium.

Congress has thus far seemed unable to understand that a country with few fortifications, with an utterly inadequate army, and with a navy half as large and powerful as it should be cannot withstand attack.

It may be argued that this country is in no danger of attack at a time when the other powers have their hands full of war. But the same arguments could have been made in England and France before they were drawn into the European war; indeed, it was not until after Austria and Servia had begun hostilities that either Germany or Russia became actually engaged.

No intelligent man who really desires peace believes that peace can be insured by lack of armament.

Today a large number of patriotic bodies are beginning a movement to force upon Congress the necessity for action.

The great cities of the two seaboards must not be left unprotected.

It is a matter of business economy as well as of patriotism to surround them with safeguards from attack from any source whatever.

A continent at war threatens the peace of the world.

As well dismantle fire apparatus at a time of general conflagration as to talk of disarmament in time of a great war. And permitting the fortifications to remain with neither men to man the guns nor ammunition to load them with amounts practically to disarmament.

This country can, if it will, learn swiftly all the lessons that have been taught by the terrific conflict across the water.

The art of war can only be learned from war.

The ideas that have proved valuable in Europe can be employed on this side of the ocean, not for purposes of aggression, but so to strengthen our coasts that no nation will dare attack us.

The movement to force Congress to act has its roots in patriotism and common sense.

It is the duty of all American citizens to join it, and to act so energetically that Congress will have no choice but to take intelligent measures for the protection of the people.

Another Railroad Has Just Been "Exposed"—The Only Remedy Is Public Ownership

The Interstate Commerce Commission has just completed an investigation into the affairs of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad. It finds that this railroad is guilty of spending MILLIONS IN POLITICS, MAKING PAYMENTS TO ALL KINDS OF PUBLIC OFFICIALS, MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE, OFFICERS OF THE COURT, MEMBERS OF PUBLIC COMMISSIONS AND FOR THE PURPOSE OF "MOULDING PUBLIC OPINION."

The Interstate Commerce Commission finds that sixteen million dollars have been spent by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad WHICH DID NOT REPRESENT ACTUAL COST OF CONSTRUCTION. Now we shall soon see this railroad clamoring for the right to increase its freight rates and passenger fares, and undoubtedly the commissions which are supposed to regulate the railroad will consent to the advance, and thus the cost of all this criminality will be taken out of the pockets of the people who live in the country which this railroad serves.

But the actual loss of MONEY which follows this lawlessness and corruption does not begin to measure the REAL loss to the community. The corruption of the public morals, the lowering of the tone of public and business life, the embittering of thousands of young men who see others making easy money and escaping the penalties of the law, who see the hollow mockery of our pretended government of and for and by the people in which legislators, district attorneys and commissioners and those who are supposed to enforce the law are all owned, body and soul, by the men and corporations who are in a regular business of violating the law—these constitute the REAL loss to the community.

This is not an exceptional, but a typical case. It is the story of EVERY railroad in the country and it is a CONTINUING story. If there is a period during which a railroad is law-abiding, it is usually after it has taken to its bed from a particularly wild debauch and is in a frame of mind of the devil who wanted to be a monk when he was sick.

These railroads and high finance anarchists are making Socialists every day, and that day is not far distant when the whole economic and political condition which tolerates such abuses will

Abdul Baha Comes as Prophet of Peace

By ELBERT HUBBARD

OUT of Persia comes Abdul Baha, who calls himself "The Servant of God."

This man has diverted one-third of the population of Persia from Mohammedanism. Throughout all Asia, Europe and the United States there are constantly growing bodies of adherents to the faith of Abdul Baha.

This man comes to the western world on a distinct mission, and no one who meets him can doubt his sincerity.

The message he brings is the unification of the world in the bonds of brotherly love, and an understanding which means peace on earth, good-will toward men.

According to Abdul Baha, we will soon live in a period of time that marks the beginning of the millennium—a thousand years of peace, happiness and prosperity.

After that Abdul Baha does not say what will happen, but he does not preach disaster.

He thinks that after the thousand years still better things are in store for us. He has the world-vision, and sees clearly this new time upon which we are now reaching. He upholds the dawn of the Great Peace upon the horizon of the world. His business is to proclaim it.

The refrain of his message is always and forever: "The day of the Lord is at hand. God's kingdom of peace and love shall be established upon the earth, and the dreams of all the prophets and poets are to become true."

Literally, poetically and symbolically, the desert shall blossom like the rose, and the waste places shall be made green, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

One distinguishable and peculiar thing about Abdul Baha is that he does not make war upon, or even criticise, any other religious faith.

Every faith fits a certain attitude of mind. It is all a part of the work of the Creator, and it is good in its time and place; and at the right time it will be sloughed and left behind, and the imprisoned soul will burst its bonds, and the captive shall be made free.

Abdul Baha is now seventy years of age. For forty years he was a prisoner, having been banished as a child with his father, the prophet, Baha Ullah, to Bagdad, Constantinople, Adrianople and finally to Acca in the Holy Land. But even his jailers dared not forbid him sending out his messages of faith.

In prison he was still in touch with the world of thinkers and the world of doers.

He was treated with a reverence and awe that is not very difficult to understand when you meet the man.

Abdul Baha has magnetism, plus his zeal, enthusiasm, animation, hope and faith run over and inundate everything.

No man can argue with him. No man can dispute with him. Every one has to agree with him—and every one does. He is what he is. He was born to this work and for this work, and considers himself divinely appointed.

* * *

Mohammedanism ranks fourth today in the number of its followers, Christianity coming first, Confucianism second and Hinduism third.

Abdul Baha leads a revolt from Islam, and takes with him as followers today the intellectual pick of Mohammedanism. He is to Persia what Emerson was to America—only more so.

Abdul Baha does not give his message to the lowly and the ignorant.

The man is regal in his way of living and in his mental attitude. He ever gives credit to the Young Turks' Society of Union and Progress, through whom he was freed from his Turkish prison at the time of the Young Turks' supremacy in 1908, at which time all the political and religious prisoners of the Ottoman Empire were freed.

Let him visit any bank, factory, office building, church, and everything is laid aside, and even lunge and ears listen until he takes his departure.

When he went to Washington and swept through the Capitol even the Supreme Court of the United States saw fit to adjourn; the House the same, and the Senate, for a while, at least, forgot matters of investigation.

When Abdul Baha went to the White House one might have thought that he was going with the intent to take possession of it.

But his is not a kingdom of this world, so far as a desire to rule is concerned. Governments are mere matters of detail, matters of business, and they do not much interest this servant of God.

Yet, for the business genius of the West Abdul Baha has a great regard. He says we must teach the people of the East how to plant and sow and reap.

The fact that America is supplying Persia automobiles, plows, reapers, threshing machines, traction engines, locomotives, trolley cars, groves, for him, his cause.

And so he, in degree, repays us by bringing to us the message of love and good-will.

War, he says, is to be done away with absolutely. The governments of the world are merely to be business institutions. We are learning what is best, and what is best is righteous and right. Sin is merely the wrong thing, and sin brings bad results.

There is no greater wickedness than that men should kill one another, destroy one another, seek to thwart and embarrass one another. Let every man live his life and do his work the best he can. We must be no cause of grief to any one. We must love humanity so much that we will be kind to all people, even to those who do wrong, having full faith that they, in time, will see that error brings pain, and love and unselfishness bring happiness and every good thing.

In-Shoots

It may not be good for man to live alone, but in these days it is a blamed sight less expensive.

Almost every man needs a parachute when posing on a pedestal of fame.

When a girl's self-respect once escapes it is next to impossible to ever outrun it.

The girl who marries for the purpose of getting a home sometimes takes in a border.

Home hitchers are bachelors because they understand women. Others because they do not.

In too many cases repentance seems to be the exclusive stunt of the under dog.

An Open Letter to Jealous Wives

Give Your Husbands Comfort and Comradeship and Thus Win Them Back from Rivals, Ella Wheeler Wilcox Advises

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

IN the first place you want to realize the great truth that thoughts are things, and that by dwelling on any idea you can produce a condition to correspond with it. Space is filled with influences and forces ready to respond to your thought. Every time you think jealous thoughts you attract jealous forces that will, in time, if you continue in this idea, estrange your husband. On the contrary, if you think and say, "He is true, he is loyal, he loves me and is worthy of my love," you attract forces of love and truth which strengthen him to resist every temptation life may offer.

In the next place you want to cultivate that rarest of all plants in the garden of love—common sense.

Sit down and consider the situation. Why did your husband select you of all women to become his wife? Probably because he loved you more than all others. Well, then, with his love and his daily companionship to start with, you have a great advantage over all rivals. You have the power in your hands to fan this flame of love into a steady fire or to quench it forever.

However much a man may be imbued with sentiment he likes comfort and peace of mind as a steady home diet. If you deprive him of those, your sentimental love is of very little value to him.

Every time you allow your unreasonable jealousy to render him uncomfortable you lose ground with him and it is more possible for him to turn elsewhere for distraction.

Added to this, you show yourself in an unbecoming mood, and he will be inclined to contrast a sullen, tearful wife with more agreeable women he meets elsewhere.

Whatever you may feel, you ought to be able to control yourself in the eyes of the man you love.

A perpetually jealous wife, remember, is the most unlovable object possible, and if you feel your emotions getting beyond control manage to seclude yourself and cry it out alone. A good cry is often a great relief to a woman. But it would be well to steam and bathe your face before you allow your husband to see you.

Make up your mind that nowhere else on earth shall your husband find such comfort, such affection, such cheerfulness, such agreeable manners as he finds with you. Unless he is the trashiest sort of characterless being he is not going to be disloyal to the woman who exhibits all these qualities.

Try to become a good comrade to your husband. Make him feel that he can speak his opinions freely to you, that you can understand him fully, and when he expresses admiration of other women brace yourself up and agree with him. Brace yourself still further, and show polite attention to the women he admires.

Nothing will more fully convince him that you respect his tastes and that you have confidence in your own position sufficient to admit his friends to your regard.

Since you love him so devotedly and are so morbidly jealous this will be a difficult task for you. But love is full of hardships, and the effort is worth making.

Aside from this it is a wise thing to study carefully and closely the women you fear as rivals. Like a shying horse when driven close to the piece of fluttering paper which has caused him to snort and quiver with terror, you will become calm and self-possessed when you discover on close acquaintance how harmless are the women you have considered dangerous rivals.

On the contrary, if you avoid and disparage them you will foster your jealous imagination and force your husband into a chivalric defence of them, which will be maddening to your jealous heart. And you will lower yourself in your husband's esteem, while if you are agreeable and attentive to his friends he will admire and respect you.

Talk to him of your pride in his loyalty; tell him that you realize the temptations with which a man's life is surrounded and praise him for giving you reason to respect him. If he is a manly man, he will find greater happiness in being worthy of your praise and pride than in yielding to any passing temptation other women may offer. If you accuse him of neglect and infidelity and nag him with your jealous fears, you will drive him to others for comfort and distraction.

Avoid talking with other women about faithless husbands who deceive trusting wives. Many women have a mania to relate cases of infidelity, and jealous wives seem fascinated with the subject. Avoid it as you would infection.

If obliged to listen to such recitals make a mental comment that you have heard only one side of the story. You do not know what cause the wives gave these husbands to become faithless. Many a seeming "devoted and trusting wife" has nagged her husband into infidelity by her narrow, petty spirit of fault finding in small matters—as one persistent mosquito has driven sleep from a luxurious pillow. Think of this when you hear of deserted or neglected wives, instead of becoming excited and morbid on the subject.

Almost all jealous people are selfish and unwilling to accord the liberty they take. No doubt you receive compliments from men with very good grace, and quite likely you express admiration of some man's appearance, conversation or manners now and then. Why should you object to your husband having the same freedom? Try to be reasonable, my dear woman. I assure you even a jealous woman can be reasonable if she takes herself in hand. If you do not take yourself in hand you will alienate your husband, ruin your own life, and make yourself a subject of ridicule to all your friends save a few, who will "sympathize," and the sympathy of friends in the place of admiration of a husband is like sawdust in place of honey on your bread.

Another Railroad Has Just Been "Exposed"

be overthrown. The men who are guilty of these practices understand their tendency well enough, but like the King of France before the French Revolution, they argue that "this will last as long as we do, after us the deluge."

It is fair to Mr. Howard Elliott, chairman of the New Haven Railroad, to say that at present there is not the slightest evidence of any of these evil practices in Massachusetts by the New Haven Railroad or by the Boston & Maine. How long this repentance will last it is impossible to say. Twenty years ago the New Haven plunged into the same lawlessness which attended its conduct during the last few years, and there were the same investigations and exposures which attended the New Haven's last debauch. The same violations of our Massachusetts laws were charged and the same promises of reform were made. Then the railroad recovered, the public paying all the expenses of its convalescence. Soon the public forgot the cost and the misconduct, and the railroad did it all over again. It is the same old story everywhere and will be repeated as long as our railroads remain in private control. It will cease only when the public takes these great utilities into its own hands and operates them itself.
